BULLETIN

(By United Press)

A "definite break" in the current heat wave in Ohio was foreseen for tomorrow afternoon or evening by U. S. Meteorologist L. K. Walters at Columbus today.

While the July sun continued to pour out blistering torridity over Mansfield and the nation today, weather forecasters promised "early relief" from sweltering temperatures but declined to venture a guess on exactly when it would arrive.

U. S Meteorologist L. K Walters at Columbus reported a mass of cool air spreading slowly eastward from the northwestern states and hinted it might reach Ohio by tomorrow night.

The forecaster at Chicago promised "real relief" for that area by tonight.

The general forecast for Ohio read: Fair and continued warm tonight and Friday morning followed by showers and thunderstorms and cooler Friday afternoon and night. Saturday generally fair and cooler.

But in Mansfield, Weather Observer Otto Sprunger reported temperatures climbing characteristically this morning for the seventh successive day. The thermometer stood at 74 at 7 a. m., jumped seven degrees in an hour, and then settled down to two and three degree rises such as piled the mercury yesterday to a high of 93, only one degree less than the year's record. It was 91 at noon today.

The average for the last 24 hours ran almost seven degrees higher than the 15 year average

Seven More 'Cider Hounds' Arrested, Sent to 'Works'

Police continuing their roundup of "cider hounds," brought in seven more persons before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch on charges of intoxication. All were fined $40 and costs apiece and ordered committed to the Columbus workhouse to "sit it out."

Judge Kalbfleisch indicated earlier this week that he would deal harshly with what he termed "cider hounds" when he ordered two transients to Columbus to "sit out" similar fines.

Officers testified that most of those cited this morning were "repeaters" and that some of them had just been released from the county jail a few days ago.

"It's too bad we can't work at both ends of this cider traffic," the court commented. "We should get the fellow who sells the stuff."

Police charged that the men have been drinking "hopped up" cider, a concoction made by putting sedative pills in the beverage.

Chief Takes Command of Robber Hunt

Bates Directing Police Effort to Apprehend Home Burglars.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates personally took over the investigation of 27 cases of house burglaries reported to police during the past month.

Two new house breakings were reported yesterday in the day by day series that has swept the city since July 1

Mrs. Della M. Cochran, 501½ West Fourth street, reported the loss of $45 worth of costume jewelry, stolen from her home sometime during the past week.

She said she believed a sneak thief had entered the unlocked front door while she was busy in the kitchen

Nick Duda, 43 West Augustine avenue told officers that his residence was entered yesterday afternoon and a bank containing $4 in change taken.

Police said entrance was gained by prying a screen from a window

What was believed to be an attempt to rob the Equitable Insurance company office at 402 Walpark building, was made Wednesday noon, but was frustrated when a policy holder walked into the office while the intruder was going through the contents of a desk.

Police said there was no evidence on the door to show that it had been tampered with. The secretary, Miss Margaret Kuneman, said she had locked it when she left for the noon hour, and the policy holder found it standing open when he arrived. The drawer of the desk had been jimmied open, but nothing had been taken.

Chief Bates said a number of clues had been found at the various homes and business places that have been robbed in the past three weeks, and that there was a certain similarity in many of them. He said he believed that in cases where sneak thieves have walked into unlocked doors or raised unlocked windows, the work had been done by the same parties.

While all of the cases are still unsolved, he said he believed that when the department makes arrests it would clear up a number of the cases.

ATTACK BILL

Cleveland CIO Council Hits Military Training.

CLEVELAND — (NS) — Compulsory military training, as outlined in bills pending in congress, today was attacked by the Cleveland industrial union council, central CIO body, as a step toward "a war of aggression."

In a resolution passed with but one protest at last night's C. I. U. C. meeting, compulsory military training also was branded "the opening wedge to institute Fascism in our country."

Only member of the council to protest was George Bender, delegate of the United Radio and Electrical Workers union, who said:

"We're being kind of ridiculous to condemn a plan that is being worked out and not offer a substitute. A fighter doesn't go into a fight unless he has had some training."

SHOCK BRINGS VOICE TO LIFE

Drowning Scare 'Just What Doctor Ordered.'

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Miss Aurelia Gawel, 26, lost her voice two years ago. Specialists said a nervous shock might cure her.

The other day, she went swimming with a cousin. The latter get beyond her depth and went down twice before Miss Gawel reached her. Both got to safety.

"That shock," said Miss Gawel—in a normal voice—"was just what the doctor ordered."

How England Prepares to Meet Nazi Invasion

By erecting concrete culverts and pillars along roads and in open fields, England hopes to nip any plans Germany may have for an air blitzkrieg. The obstructions will make it impossible for Nazi planes to land with troops as successfully tried in the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Norway.

NORRIS OPPOSES TRAINING PLAN

Senator Minton Forecasts Passage of Measure By Congress.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator Norris (Ind. Neb) raised his voice today against compulsory military training, saying that it would gradually transform the United States into an "international bully bent on the destruction of other nations.

The only present member of the senate who voted against the country's entry into the World war, Norris pointed to Hitler's Germany as an object lesson of what, in his opinion, would happen to American ideals under peacetime conscription.

"If our young men are to be compelled to spend a goodly portion of every year in a military training camp," he said, "it would have an effect upon their natures.

"If such a program were carried on for 50 years, the rising generation would know no other ideal except that of military force."

Despite the addition of Norris to a slowly forming opposition bloc, Senator Minton (D. Ind.), Democratic whip, predicted that congress would enact a compulsory service program. Minton is a member of the senate military

Akron Police Turn Hunt For Killer to Mansfield

Patients of Slain Physician Sought for Quiz By Detectives; 'Town to Town' Search Planned.

Akron police baffled for the past 20 days by the mysterious killing of Dr. Malcolm Dean Miller, prominent physician, today announced their investigation had spread to Mansfield and scores of other cities within a 125-mile radius of Akron

Dr. Miller, 61-year-old eccentric who mixed rifle shooting with photography and painting and was wed to a woman 27 years his junior, met death from pistol wounds July 5 in his drab back office on the fringe of Akron's downtown district. His wife was a lone witness. From her, authorities received their principal clues.

Akron authorities have already asked Mansfield police to search for a "left-handed gunman," and Police Chief Meade K. Bates today indicated that Akron detectives will be given "the entire co-operation" of his department in their search for clues here.

Detective Inspector Verne Cross said at Akron today that the entire area within a 125 mile radius of Akron would be searched "town by town" to find the killer.

From this wide area, Cross reported, came secretive patients of the slain physician. He dealt principally with troubled women seeking surgical treatment and among their number, reaching into the thousands, the inspector said, will be found the root of the crime.

The gunman, Mrs. Miller reported, was curly-haired and swarthy with a slightly foreign accent. He walked into the second-floor office shortly before dusk July 5, seated himself until another pa-

WOMAN SLAPPED

Russian Wife of American Hit By Japanese.

SHANGHAI — (AP) — A belated foreign dispatch said today that the Russian-born wife of an American, C. J. Meyer of Salt Lake City, Utah, was slapped in a scuffle with Japanese plain clothes police at Tsingtao during recent disorders these involving United States sailors and Japanese authorities.

It was reported the Japanese police had been called to deal with a Japanese who allegedely had smashed a large window in Meyer's bar.

The Japanese denied the charge and a scuffle ensued in which Mrs. Meyer was slapped.

A fight occurred on the beach the same night between Japanese and a single United States sailor, but the incident has been settled.

2 Hurt When Driver Swerves Auto to Avoid Hitting Dog

Swerving a car in order to avoid hitting an injured dog in the road, brought to an end the pleasure tour of four Baltimore tourists, and sent two of them to General hospital with injuries.

The accident occurred on Wooster road, three and a half miles east of Mansfield at 7:15 a. m. in front of the farm home of Homer Dise. An automobile driven by an unidentified motorist struck a dog belonging to Dise and the Maryland car, driven by Edward Sewell, swerving to avoid striking the dog ran off the road and struck a pole according to Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman

Samuel McLain, 50, sitting in the front seat, broke the windshield when his head struck it, and suffered severe facial and neck bruises. His daughter, Miss Elizabeth McLain, riding in the back seat with Mrs. Sewell, suffered a broken left arm. The Sewells were uninjured.

Deputy Freeman brought the two victims of the accident to General hospital. The car, owned by McLain, was considerably damaged.

The party was returning to Baltimore after a trip through the west.

Three persons, Mr. and Mrs. Styrl M. Mishey and son Charles, of R D 1 Lexington escaped injury yesterday at 5:30 p m when their car was sideswiped by a milk ship driver on Route 13 five miles south of Mansfield. The car was damaged but the occupants escaped with little more than a shaking up.

GET PROPOSAL OF ARMED AID BY VENEZUELA

Reciprocal Agreement Would Go Far Beyond Plans of Havana Conference.

ARGENTINA BALKING

Wishes to Continue 300-Mile Zone Already Broken By Warring Nations.

(By United Press)

HAVANA—A proposal that the 21 American republics pledge one another reciprocal aid in event of aggression was placed before the conference of American foreign ministers today.

Introduced by Venezuela, the proposal surprised the delegates who had given thought only to plans to keep the new world isolated from the European and totalitarian economic inroads. It would supplement the United States policy of making bi-lateral defense agreements with countries in the Caribbean area

Argentina, which strongly opposed a United States proposal for a "collective trusteeship" over the orphaned western hemisphere colonies of conquered European nations, offers a counter-proposal today—deadline for submission of suggestions to the conference.

All delegations agreed there was no possibility that a permanent agreement on defense would be sought. Many observers, however, thought it conceivable that some broad declaration of defense principles which would afford a guide post in the subsequent development of continental defense, might result.

The problem of the European colonies remained the most important one, particularly because of the divergence of the views of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of the United States delegation, and Leopoldo Melo, head of the Argentine delegation.

Argentina wants to follow the method used by the last Pan-American conference to establish a 300-mile-wide "security zone" around the western hemisphere This was a mere declaration—no treaty was signed

The "security zone" has not been accepted by Germany, France or Great Britain War vessels of all those countries have been accused of violating the zone, such as when the German pocket battleship Graf Spee and three British cruisers engaged in battle off Montevideo, Uruguay, last December.

Plane Factory 12 Miles From City Attacked

German Speedboat Makes Daring Raid Across Channel to Sink Armed Merchant Ship Near Great Naval Base at Portland.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Hugh Dalton, British minister of economic warfare, shortly will announce extension of the British blockade to cover all western coasts of Europe and South Africa, it was understood today. Under this extension, all ships proceeding to such ports without British "navicerts" will be liable to be halted.

(By Associated Press)

Nazi air bombs fell 12 miles from the outskirts of London today, the German high command reported, while in another daring operation a 50-mile-an-hour Nazi topedo speedboat bounced 60 miles across the English channel to sink an armed merchant ship near Britain's great naval base at Portland.

Skittering over the rough channel waters too fast for the big long-range guns of the naval base to make it an effective target, the German sea raider got in its knockout blow on an 18,000-ton craft and darted home again.

The high command said German planes bombed the big British Vickers aircraft factory at Weybridge, just 12 miles from London, where the famous Brooklands auto race-track is also located.

The raids came as Britain claimed victory in the first major phase of the 5-weeks-old struggle against Nazi conquest of England—by repeated violent attacks on German "blitzkrieg bases" across the channel—and at the same time tightened her blockade of the reich.

With more than 1,000 mass air raids, a London spokesman said the British Royal Air Force now has "made it extremely difficult for Germany to organize massed attacks on this country from airdromes in Holland, Belgium and France, or from bases the enemy hoped to establish in Norway."

The spokesman said the RAF, although numerically outnumbered by German warplanes, had "to a great extent succeeded in breaking down" Hitler's scheme for a cross-channel invasion of the British Isles and had made new air bases "acquired nearer our shores practically untenable."

"These violent, non-stop onslaughts are making the enemy reel under hammer blows," he said.

The British report, taken at face value, might at least partially explain the mystery of Hitler's de-

NEUTRAL: British Say Nazis Torpedoed French Steamship

(By United Press)

LONDON—First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told the house of commons today that a German torpedo boat had sunk the illuminated and plainly-marked French steamship Meknes carrying 1,300 French naval officers and men, with a possible loss of 300 lives.

The 6,127-ton Meknes, on which French navy men were being repatriated under terms of the French-German armistice, was sunk off the south coast of England after leaving Southampton on Wednesday for Marseilles, Alexander said.

Denouncing the sinking as a "deliberate and callous attack on a ship of obvious non-belligerent character," Alexander said:

"British naval units and aircraft were ordered to proceed at once to the scene and I am happy to say that so far about 1,000 survivors have been reported."

The Meknes formerly was the Puerto Rico, built in 1913, with her home port at LeHavre. She was owned by the French Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique.

Alexander said that he had heard the German high command, presumably in the broadcast communique, "admit responsibility" for the sinking of the Meknes off Portland.

"The passengers and crew were given five minutes to take to the boats, but each time the ship tried to signal her name she was again fired on. She sank in four or five minutes," Alexander said.

He said the Meknes was one of a number of ships being used in accordance with the terms of the armistice (between France and Germany) and that Britain had informed the French government representatives in advance of her intention to repatriate French naval men in French ships.

SEALED: Rumania Lines Up Fate With Nazis, Italians

(By United Press)

BUCHAREST, Rumania—A conference at Salzburg, Austria, between Premier Ion Girgutu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu for Rumania and Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop for Germany is expected to seal the adherence of Rumania to the Berlin-Rome "axis," official circles said today.

Girutu and Manoilescu left for Salzburg by special train today. It was made known that from Salzburg they would proceed, at the invitation of the Italian government, to Rome for a conference Saturday or Sunday with Benito Mussolini and his foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

There was considerable speculation still on how Germany and Italy would coordinate their increasing interest in the Balkans with Russia's Announcement yesterday that Russia had accepted Grigore Gafencu, former foreign minister, as Rumanian minister at Moscow was believed by some to mean that he would take up this matter.

A German delegation is expected to arrive in Bessarabia today or tomorrow to conduct the problem of repatriating 50,000 Germans in that territory acquired by Russia.

Nervousness here over reports that Rumania intended to recall its minister to London, and that some or all foreign-owned oil companies might be confiscated, was somewhat relieved today.

Assumption by the government of control of the great Astra Romana Oil company, a subsidiary of Royal Dutch Shell, caused speculation whether this company, Rumania's biggest producer with 3,500 tons a day, would be seized outright and whether others might be seized

It appeared, however, that the government assumed control of Astra Romana after the company failed to satisfy its demands for confidential scientific documents regarding the exploitation of new fields

BUSINESS GETS ADDED IMPETUS FROM DEFENSE

Thousands of Workers Find Private Industry Jobs After Spring Slump.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The $10,000,000,000 defense program has given impetus to an unusual summer upswing in factory payrolls and employment, business reports said today.

Many thousands of workers have found jobs in private industry since production curves in steel, machine-building, arms factories and other plants turned upward in May following a winter and early spring business slump.

Extending the summer's advance, latest figures in the Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity portrayed factory operations generally at the highest July level since 1929. This gauge of industry has climbed from 93.6 late in April to 106.7 per cent of the 1929-30 level. A year ago it was 90.4.

Rail loadings, electric power consumption, cotton textile manufacturing, steel output and residential building all have contributed to further gains the last few weeks.

The giant motor industry — a leader in the earlier stages of the rise—is making an early shift to production of new models this year, causing a falling off in assemblies of old models.

Motor producers, however, have felt the unusual summer push forward in a contra-seasonal improvement in demand for automobiles. Trade reports said July sales of cars may top the June total, upsetting the normal trend for a June-to-July decline.

Mirroring U. S. and British spending for war equipment, as well as business anticipation of a boom in heavy industry when the defense program gets into full stride, trade data indicated additional expansion in payrolls at many industrial communities.

Business commentators cited the federal reserve board's figures on department store sales. In the Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond and Chicago federal reserve districts—where the bulk of industrial expansion has taken place — store sales in the four weeks ended July 13 were 10 to 14 per cent larger than in the comparable 1939 period.

Trade analysts attributed the improvement in retail trade in large part to industrial employment and payroll increases.

Steel payrolls for this time of the year were estimated in trade circles above the comparable 1929 figures. Mills were running above 86 per cent of capacity this week and a further moderate gain was forecast for the coming week.

Heavy construction — rated the biggest single absorber of manpower — was expected to continue adding to payrolls in the execution of large government contracts for shipways, explosive plants, barracks, machine shop extensions and other military facilities.

Awards for federal defense works sent the weekly building compilation of the "Engineering News-Record" to an unprecedented total of $217,000,000. The previous peak was $181,000,000 in March, 1930.

City Starts to Cut Weeds, Extra Crew to Be Added

Cutting weeds on vacant lots in the city will take on new impetus within a few days when James Kuneman, sanitary officer of the health department, adds two more men to the work.

With the approach of hay fever season, Kuneman said he was anxious to get the weeds down. To date there has just been one man on the work.

Property owners are compelled by law to keep the weeds cut on their properties, but in cases where they refuse to comply the city health department does the work and puts the charges on the property's tax duplicate.

Written notices are sent property owners, ordering them to cut the weeds. They are given five days to comply with the order. City workmen are sent to cut the weeds if the order is ignored.

BATES TO ATTEND 7-DAY CRIME SCHOOL IN WASHINGTON AGAIN

Police Chief Meade K. Bates will go to Washington, D. C., next month to attend a seven-day retraining school at the National Police Academy, he announced today.

The chief was granted a week's leave of absence by Mayor William J. Locke to attend the course in police work conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Bates completed a 12-week course at the academy three years ago and in 1938 and 1939 returned to Washington for several days retraining under the G-Men.

The school, in session from Sept. 30 to Oct. 5, is conducted under the direction of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the department of justice, and drills police officers from all parts of the United States in the latest methods of scientific crime detection and investigation work.

During the chief's absence Capt. T. M. Bell, veteran first shift officer, will be acting chief, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said.

Bates will receive his regular salary but will finance the trip himself as he has the past two years, he said. In 1937 $400 was raised by popular subscription to send him to attend the school.

SPORTS NEWS-JOURNAL

Three Players Sure of Seeing Action In Series

Pitchers Waging Battle for Berths; Club Will Play Hermans for Championship.

DICK HENSHAW, Al Stickler and Bob Lapine have polled enough votes in the softball poll to be assured of a berth on the Mansfield Wrecking Company All-Star team to battle the Sons of Herman for the city championship, a half-way tabulation of the ballots revealed today.

At present the fight for the No. 1 position on the pitching corps appears to be the closest with Lapine holding a slim six-point lead over Dale McKinley, strike-out artist

Six Y. M. C A league players have collected 100 or more votes for a berth on the infield roster and it looks like Nick Weber will be a sure starter for Manager Nick Wagner's All-Stars

If your favorite player is not among the top group you still have time to cast your ballot All you have to do is select your team and mail the ballot to Dave Lapine in care of the Mansfield Wrecking company, 585 North Main street (A ballot appears on page 15)

With approximately 650 votes in late yesterday, a record entry is expected and Lapine and Charles Martin of The News-Journal will tabulate the votes Sunday and the winners will be announced in Monday's News-Journal (You have until midnight, Saturday July 27 to cast your vote)

Bob Lapine, Mansfield Wreckers' hurler is leading the parade He has 223 votes and the only other player amassing 200 or more votes is McKinley with 217. Judy is pacing the outfielders with a 120 total Dick Henshaw is leading the catchers with 118.

Braves Trip Birds

Arnold Hands Fostoria 5-3 Beating at Fair Park; Club in Fremont.

MANSFIELD broke into the win column again last night with a 5 to 3 triumph over Fostoria before a small gathering under the floodlights at the Fairground.

Bob Arnold marked up his 10th victory of the year as he held the last-place Red Birds to seven hits Bob was a little wild, but coasted through in fine shape until the ninth when Fostoria scored all its runs.

Rex Benton is expected to be Manager Dewey Stover's selection to handle the mound assignment against the Green Sox at Fremont tonight.

Mansfield will meet Fremont before a "Ladies' night" crowd at the Fair park at 8 30 p m Friday

Herb Woodten, Walt Missler and Gene Woodling paced the Braves at the plate last night. The three collected two hits apiece.

The Braves grabbed the lead in the second frame with a run and never relinquished it as they handed the Red Birds their 50th defeat of the season

Arnold was in fine shape He had the Red Birds handcuffed until the ninth In eight innings he gave up four hits, one of them a double by Stan Olesko, former Brave, who is playing second base for the Red Birds.

Pilot Stover and his warriors added two markers in the fourth and climaxed their scoring with two tallies in the seventh.

Bob got into trouble in the ninth by giving up three straight walks. A home run, double and single gave Fostoria its three runs. Brock hit the home run for the losers.

Indians Mark Up 5th Straight Victory

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A fifth straight victory for the Cleveland Indians made their "slump" on the recent eastern tour look today like just a few bad breaks

* * *

The tribe has bounced back after losing six in a row to Washington and New York, and the fans know it only as a club that is hitting the pennant trail hard.

Seeking to sweep the series with the Philadelphia Athletics, the Indians entered the final game with Mel Harder on pitching duty for them Although credited with six victories he has yet to pitch a complete game this season He faced Lee (Bucky) Ross who has defeated the Indians twice in three starts

Cleveland's pennant chances weavered for a time yesterday as Bob Feller was hit on the jaw by a thrown ball An examination revealed only a bruise and a couple chipped teeth however, and he would have been ready for service yesterday in a pinch He was struck by a ball heaved by Keith Monroe a sandlotter working out with the tribe

Roy Weatherly paced the tribe's attack with a two-run homer in the third inning as the club won its fifth straight a 7 to 6 victory over Philadelphia to remain a half-game back of the first place Detroit Tigers

Al Smith helped win his own game by getting three hits in as many times at bat and scoring three runs. Nate Andrews succeeded him in the sixth but pitched to only two men, both of them hitting safely. Harry Eisenstat took over then and held the A's in check.

The Mackmen collected a total of 12 hits off the three tribesmen, while Cleveland reached Chubby Dean Berman Besse and Bill Beckman for 11 safe blows.

Redlegs Look Like National League Champs

Thrash Brooklyn Dodgers 6-3; Bucky Walters Chalks Up 15th Victory.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE CINCINNATI REDS look better day by day and twice as good by night.

As they thrashed the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-3, last night for Bucky Walters' 15th victory this season, fans sat back and told their neighbors they were looking at the next world champions.

That was how smoothly the Redlegs disposed of the next best team in the National league.

They never made a fielding error during the entire three-game series, which they swept with comparative ease to inflate their first place margin to eight full games

The Reds now have taken seven of their last eight games against the Dodgers have won 17 of the last 19 against all comers and their last six in a row

Walters was at the peak of his form in the night game that drew 30 000 paying patrons to Ebbets Field but he never had to bear down

In the only other National league game, the Boston Bees beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, with Carvell Rowell's triple knocking in the deciding run

The American league field has narrowed practically to two teams—Detroit and Cleveland.

Both won yesterday as the junior circuit came up with one of the wildest days in its history

The Tigers kept half a game in front with a 7-5 decision over the Washington Senators that was credited to Fred Hutchinson their $70,000 rookie. With Hank Greenberg hitting his 18th homer and Pinky Higgins his seventh, Detroit acquired a 7-0 lead only to give back five of it in the sixth and seventh innings It took some fine relief hurling by Al Benton

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene (Junior) Thompson, the Reds' righthander, is on crutches as a result of that squabble with the Dodgers Tuesday night, and will be out for about 10 days. . . . Carl Snavely won additional honors for Cornell by the manner in which he conducted that grid coaching school at Utah State.... They say the Washington Redskins have 90,000 frogskins in the bank, the result of selling 10,000 tickets.

BASEBALL DEPT.

Doug Dean of the Buford (Ga.) team has hit safely in 58 consecutive games and at last reports was still going strong. . . . And Bobby Lawrence of the Dekalb (Ga.) sandlotters has flung himself into the amateur hall of fame by winning five games in six days in an amateur tournament — if the scouts don't look this kid over they're crazy.

Here's an oddity about the Dodgers and Reds who are battling for the National league lead. . . . Last year the Reds used eight guys in left field. . . . So far this year the Brooks have used nine in right . . . Also, Atley Donald and Steve Sundra, who won 24 games for the Yanks in 1939, have won a grand total of two this season What's the matter with the Yanks, eh? Well, there's two reasons . . .

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Tom Anderson, Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal: "U. of Tennessee footballers who got large jolts out of being photographed hugging movie stars and starlets will have the edge taken off their fond memories when they hear the Hollywood cuties have been posed embracing and osculating Maurice Tillett (The Angel)."

This department is glad to see the all-star teams giving the small college players a break in their annual tussle with the pros For instance, Bulldog Turner of Hardin-Simmons likely will win a starting berth at center with the western team while the east already has picked Sam Hammerstrom, Union college fullback, for its squad . . . Don't be surprised if the main fame to the Di Maggio name develops in the Pittsburgh branch of the family this year Up to a week ago, brother Vince had swatted homers in seven National league orchards a wider range than that of any other National league slugger.

MEL OTT DAY?

Around town they're getting up a "day" for Mel Ott who's been one of the Giant stars for more years than Mel would like us to print. . . . We are 100 per cent for the idea, but think the sponsors would do better to hold the ceremonies at night. . . . In other words:

We think that Master Melvin Ott
(Who currently is very hot)
Should have his "day" beneath the watts.
For that is when he really swats.

THAT STOPPED HIM.

Recently Sonny Jones, sports editor of the Tallahassee (Fla.) Democrat, severely panned an umpire in the Georgia-Florida league. . . . Next day the umps got tough and told Sonny: "If I wasn't an umpire I'd bust you one" . . . To which Sonny quipped: "Well, you're no umpire so go right ahead."

Top-Notchers Match Strokes In Public Links Tournament

DETROIT—(AP)—Two par-busting youths who broke all qualifying records for amateur competition match strokes today over the long Rackman municipal course in the third round of the national public links golf championships.

The two—Worth Stimits, jr., a Colorado college senior, and Edward J. Furgol, 22-year-old Utica, N. Y., metal polisher—shared medalist honors with a record-breaking qualifying score of 138.

They were among the survivors of a hectic day of firing in which two ex-champions fell by the wayside in the first round and another went out in the second.

Defending champion Andy Szwedko of Pittsburgh was the first to go, falling before William Bublis of Chicago, 3 and 2, in the day's biggest upset.

The other former champions who failed were David A Mitchell of Atlanta, 1934 winner, who lost, 1 up to William Doll of Louisville, Ky., when Doll dropped a 35-foot putt on the final green, and Carl Kauffmann of Pittsburgh, 1927-28-29 titleholder

Kauffmann, a 41-year-old driving range proprietor, was a 2 and 1 victim of 19-year-old Jack La Rose of Detroit in the second round

Stimits first took the measure of Marshall Springer, Chicago, 3 and 1, and then had to go 20 holes to gain a 1 up victory over F. E. Ames, Beaumont, Tex., machinist. Furgol, a gallery favorite because of an injured left arm he cannot keep straight, disposed of Edward Ebel of Minneapolis, 3 and 2, and William Fritz of San Francisco, 2 up.

* * *

Today's two 18-hole rounds will reduce the field to four Semi-finals tomorrow and finals Saturday will be 36-holes.

to pull through the Tigers.

The Indians squeezed past the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-6, with Roy Weatherly's two-run homer providing the principal impetus and Lefty Al Smith getting credit for his tenth victory, although he lasted only until the sixth.

The rampaging Chicago White Sox rolled up 20 hits in beating the Boston Red Sox, 12-10, for their sixth successive triumph.

The worst debacle of all, however, was at St. Louis, where the Browns ripped open the world champion New York Yankees, 14-12, after the Yanks had tallied six runs in the first frame. The Yanks got four homers, including one by Bill Dickey with the bases loaded and another by Joe DiMaggio that extended his hitting streak to 17 games.

But the Browns kept digging away for 17 hits off six New York pitchers, took a 12-10 lead in the seventh and after the Yanks tied the score in the ninth, Walter Judnich hit a homer with one on in the last half of the inning to win.

* * *

Altogether, the four games in the American league brought into action 30 pitchers, who gave up 111 hits and 73 runs.

Birds Take It On the Chin

Columbus Drops 3rd Tilt to Kansas City.

(By Associated Press)

The Columbus Red Birds were doing very well by their third place ambitions in the American association until they encountered that well known Kansas City wrecking crew.

They lost their third straight to the league leading Blues yesterday, 11 to 5. Thanks to some co-operation from St. Paul, however they still were riding in third position today, a game in front of Louisville which lost to the Saints, 7 to 3.

At Milwaukee, the Brewers and Toledo wound up a sixth place duel, with Milwaukee still hanging on to a half game edge. Milwaukee won the opener, 12 to 9, but Toledo came back to take the second in 10 innings, 4 to 2.

In the other game, Minneapolis uncorked six runs in the sixth inning against Indianapolis, but the Indians retaliated with seven in the eighth and added another in the ninth to win, 8 to 6.

FOREST FURY + + + + + + + + +

By OREN ARNOLD
(Copyright 1940)

She was not 50 yards uptrail from her pump and she was panting from exhaustion, a sorry looking bathing suit and a lot of scratches everywhere "Monty!" she called, hysterically. "Monty! . . . Monty"! . . .

In a moment he was at her side lifting her bodily. Then all at once wondered precisely what to do, for even as he stood there with her he heard a reassuring "Boom!"

It brought a sudden exhultation to his heart. He knew, at least he felt certain, that his plan was beginning to work. The first drum of gasoline uptrail had already been engulfed by fire, had heated quickly and exploded like the bomb it was. Above the pall now he could see the blacker uprushing of gasoline smoke and flame. Quickly he heard a second "Boom!"

Plainly he could not carry her home, nor even go back in the truck the way he had come.

"Oh Monty, Monty!" she was sobbing now. "Are you all right? Is Sue———?"

"Sue is safe, my dear. Safe at the post. She had thought you could make it. She didn't realize the grave danger. Nobody did!

"You did, Monty! You—you came! Oh!"

He discovered that he had waded into the lake water with her, just automatically carrying her there. She clung to his neck like a frightened child, and even in this moment of extreme stress he found that experience exalting.

Oddly, now, he did not feel the terror he had known a few minutes ago. In fact there was no sense of fear in him at all. On the contrary he felt like a conqueror and he gazed back with satisfaction to note that the fire had passed the end of the lake and was all along the edge of the trail. They swam toward the lake center in order to get away from falling sparks and out of the smoke that stung so miserably at their eyes. He aided her by towing her easily with one hand.

In a moment the final bombardment began. At least it sounded like a bombardment. The gasoline drums were blocking the fire's onrush exactly as he had reasoned they might. He hoped that they would delay its progress until the fire fighting crew could arrive up the hill and take charge.

When he had half towed the tired girl three or four hundred yards into the water, he sounded carefully near a group of old tree stumps and found a place to rest. It wasn't shoulder-deep to him there, and she could sit on a stump very near him. For a long moment they just relaxed and breathed deeply. He stood with his arm tight around her waist, holding her very close and gazing with her at the spectacle of fire. Presently, though, he became conscious of her nearness.

"Rosemary!" he suddenly murmured, then paused to swallow hard. "A change has come over me this hour. There is something I must say!"

"Monty?"

"I have ceased being a a gentleman, my dear! Hereafter it is to be a fight! I shall no longer stay in the background."

"Monty, are you—? I don't understand!"

"I am serving notice, my dear, that I love you so powerfully I cannot stand it! I don't care if you do love King. I expect to challenge him. I shall devote every ounce of my energy, every moment of my nights and days to competing with him. I shall——"

"Oh Monty!"

"—Shall ask only that you give me a little time, a little time! A chance to court you as a man should do and prove my love, Rosemary. I shall make myself whatever you want a man to be. For you, you darling. I will completely rebuild my life and—"

"—and make myself into an "Monty!"

outdoorsman of a physical worker or any sort of husband that might appeal to your delightfully romantic soul! I have been frantic with love of you since the moment you came into my life, and I have wasted these weeks because I was somehow in awe of you and permitted a man in a uniform to—oh Rosemary, can you grant me a little more time, for a fresh start? Can you permit me to ———?"

* * *

He had worked into an enthusiasm and intentness which made him speak very rapidly, standing close to her and gazing right into her eyes. All at once she stooped over to kiss him firmly on the lips.

"Oh! Oh I say, you--!" He gazed at her in consternation.

"Monty, I have been trying my best to interrupt you! You are all excited!"

She kissed him again—and then quite boldly slipped off the stump and clung tightly to his neck, dangling there with most of her lithe young body submerged.

"If you l-let me down, Monty, I'll probably drown! Hold me tight! Tight, Monty! . . And kiss me again, will you Monty dear?"

"Rosemary! The fire! The—you——!"

He gave up trying to talk.

He had said his say anyway His heart had poured out, quite involuntarily. He had taken no cognizance of their strange situation, of the devastation wreaked by the conflagration around them and of the wild drama still booming up the trail. They themselves were out of danger, out of danger and in each other's arms.

"Monty darling," she was nestled against his wet neck, his hair releasing tiny rivulets to run down her face and nose, "no, I will positively not give you any more time. I already love you. I told you I loved Bob King, but—Monty, that was just a momentary idea, a little romantic feeling I had when Bob sang songs to me. Monty, you can sing! You can do anything! I have been leaning more and more on you, trusting you and wanting you and loving you without realizing it! I have, Monty! I know it now. I could shriek in sheer joy!"

"I say—Oh I say, I could shriek for joy myself! I—I—Rosemary, may I just kiss you some more? May I? I shall!"

In time the Associated Press and United Press and other great telegraphic news services were to proclaim to the nation that Dr. Archibald Montgomery had used drums of gasoline for explosive to stop a forest fire. Coast to coast, his picture was on the front pages, his and that of the beautiful girl he had rescued.

Nearly one hundred men and CCC boys had roared up to Summit Trading Post with full equipment. The bursting drums cleared out a swatch just right for them to step in and halt the progress of the fire.

Mr. McKee, who arrived to direct the battle, was astonished and delighted. The only important loss besides 90 acres or so of trees was the gasoline and the truck that had hauled it. By nightfall that day only a smouldering was left, and this was carefully guarded by an efficient mop-up crew busy with destroying any last vestige of flame.

When Sue, in virtual hysteria, had feared for Rosemary's life during the height of the excitement, she had taken her father's field glasses and climbed to the roof of the trading post because from there she could catch a glimpse of the lake half a mile away. As breaks in the smoke permitted, the powerful glasses revealed something.

"Can you see them? Any sign at all?" Bob King called up.

"Yes! Yes, I can! And Bob!"

He didn't answer. He just climbed quickly up the roof too, with Mr. McKee at his heels. Together the three sat taking turns with the glasses, studying their magic two-eyed view.

"It's wonderful!" Sue breathed, sighing. "Now he's kissing her again! I've known all along they were in love!"

"Yeah," Bob took the glasses now. "Sort of guessed it myself. Um. Well, come on down, Susie kid. They're safe, but I'm afraid you'll fall, and I got work to do."

"That's right," said Mr. McKee.

THE END.

LOW COST DATES

LUBBOCK, Tex. —(INS)— Another reason why Papa finds it so hard to keep that bank balance while daughter is in college was revealed today by a survey conducted by V. H. Britton who found that the average co-ed may spend more dressing for a date than the man spends taking her out. However, that wouldn't cause many wrinkles if she's a student at Texas Tech—because the average young man spends only eighty cents on a date there; ten cents for bus tickets, 20 to 40 cents for show tickets, and 30 cents for refreshments.

Convict Ends 19-Hour Perch On Atlanta Pen Water Tower

ATLANTA, Ga. —(INS)— After defying guards for 19 hours with a machinist's hammer, 20-year-old Andrew Jackson Wynne—who preferred life in the Atlanta federal penitentiary to that on a Georgia prison gang—ended his self-imposed holdout atop the prison's 100-foot water tower today.

Wynne, who was to have been released from the prison today and turned over to the Chatham county prison, slowly descended the water tower 15 minutes after he had held a long conversation with a prison guard. He had been on top of the tower since yesterday afternoon.

There was no word immediately from prison authorities as to what the unidentified guard told the convict that prompted him to change his mind and quit his vigil.

$100 DOG HOUSE

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia.—(U.P.)—Bill O'Neill, a tavern proprietor, is the envy of all the married men in Council Bluffs.

O'Neill built for his dog, Axel, a $100 dog house.

The house, 8 by 10 feet, has brick walls, a concrete floor, an asbestos shingled roof, and is well insulated.

A BIRD IN THE GLOVE

ASHEVILLE, N. C. —(AP)—A robin took an imported lace glove from the bedroom of Mrs. D. B. Burns for use in its nest. The fire department retrieved it.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ON DUMP HEAP

SANDUSKY — (AP) — Retired from service in 1939, the steamer Chippewa, once the pride of the Sandusky bay waterfront, has been relegated to the salvage dump.

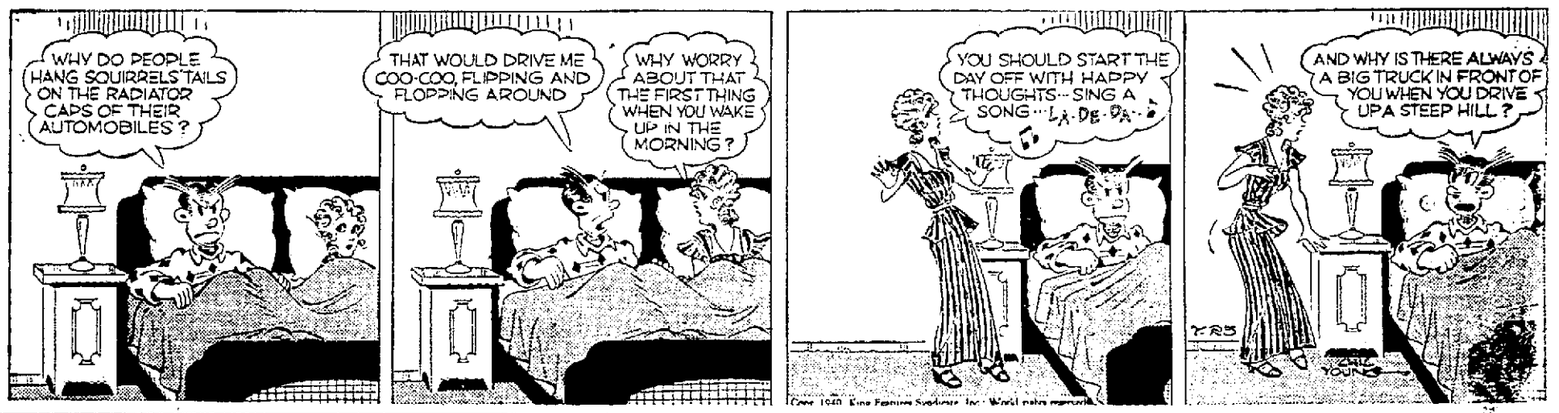

Salvage agents bought the boat from the Sandusky and Islands Steamship Co., original operators here, attempted to re-sell it, and then decided to dismantle the craft for scrap.

STOCKS SLIP AS MILD RALLY FADES IN MART

Steels, Motors Included in List Falling Back; Commodities Are Trifle Uneven.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Attempts to brush up a mild rally quickly faded in today's stock market and leading issues backed down fractions.

Inclined to slip were U S Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Sperry, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Standard Oil of N. J and International Nickel.

Bonds failed to get anywhere in particular and commodities were a trifle uneven.

Followers of the tire company shares noted forecasts domestic rubber consumption would register a further sizable decline in July and August.

The Engineering News-Record estimated construction awards for the week ended Tuesday, while exceeding the comparable period last year by 24 per cent, were 69 per cent under the preceding week wherein the aggregate was exceptionally large.

NORRIS OPPOSES TRAINING PLAN

Senator Minton Forecasts Passage of Measure By Congress.

committee which is working on details of the pending Burke-Wadsworth legislation in hopes of having it ready for debate next week.

"I think," Minton told reporters, "that the people are convinced that emergency requires it.

"We have been advised by both the army and navy that, although their present recruiting programs are on schedule, they cannot build up adequate defense forces rapidly enough by voluntary enlistments

"It is not a question of actually calling up millions upon millions of men but of getting the nation's manpower registered and creating a reservoir of men who can be trained if it proves necessary."

Outside the capitol, the national council for the prevention of war joined the opposition with a charge of "indecent haste" in seeking compulsory training. The council urged that the nation have a chance to consider fully a program which it asserted is equivalent to "virtual revolution in our entire outlook."

The senate military committee, which has approved the major provisions of the Burke-Wadsworth training bill, was called into session again to consider remaining sections.

Members said they might tackle the problem of assuring workers that they would get back their old jobs when they returned from a year's military training

The committee approved yesterday an amendment which, following the lines of World war legislation, would defer military training and service for members of congress and executive and judicial officials of the federal and state governments.

Sheppard reported that virtual agreement was reached by the committee yesterday to exempt "conscientious objectors" from combat training.

UCC PAYMENTS TO JOBLESS UP 100 PER CENT

$174,311 Paid During Six Months Period; $75,238 Paid Year Ago.

Unemployment benefits to jobless workers in the Mansfield area during the first six months of 1940 more than doubled over payments made during the corresponding period last year, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the state Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

Handley said that benefit payments to unemployed workers in the three-county district during the first six months of this year totaled $174,311 as compared to $75,238 during the same period in 1939—the first six months that payments were made under the unemployement compensation program.

Part of the increase was attributed to the fact that the district during the first half of 1939 included Richland and Morrow counties. Ashland county was incorporated in the Mansfield area in January of this year.

Bureau records show that payments in the district soared from a combined total in January and February 1939 of $8,147 to a peak in April of this year of $35,230.

Handley said no record was available showing the number of persons that received benefits although files disclosed that 2,866 unemployed persons filed claims with the Mansfield office during the first half of this year as compared with 2,161 received during the same period in 1939.

Largest number of claims — 1,204—were filed with the office during January 1939 when the jobless benefits, under the compensation plan became effective.

Weekly checks for total and partial unemployment have both shown an increase this year. Average weekly benefit for partial unemployment has been $6.03.

For the first half of 1939 average weekly benefits for total unemployment were $8.76 and partial unemployment checks averaged $4.93.

A total of 2,984 applications for employment were filed with the district office during the first six months of 1940 against 2,330 filed during the same period last year.

During the first half of this year 1,363 persons have been placed in positions through the employment service maintained by the compensation bureau while 787 found work through the same channels during the corresponding period in 1939.

GET READY TO POUR CONCRETE

Contractor Says Laying of Forms on West Fourth to Start Next Week.

Setting the forms and pouring concrete on the West Fourth street paving project will get under way sometime next week, according to present plans.

Carl H. Stander, president of the Mansfield Asphalt and Paving company, which has the paving contract, said today that work of laying concrete would get under way on Diamond street, east end of the project, as soon as workers have completed three blocks of grading.

Because the three most extensively traveled street intersections in the north half of the city are involved in the first three blocks, Stander said he would try to arrange the concrete and brick laying so that only one of these would be closed at a time. These are Fourth and Main, Walnut and Mulberry.

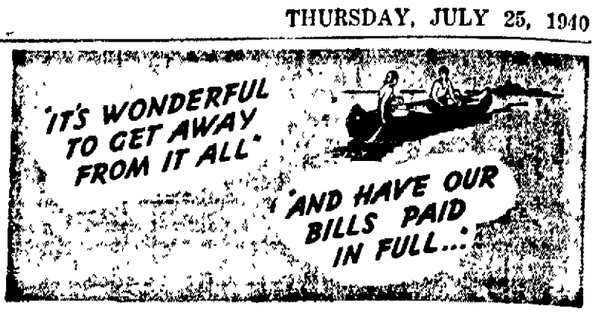

First work after the grading is completed will be pouring the concrete for the six-foot strip on each side of the street to be finished in concrete. The 28-foot strip in the middle will be a concrete base finished in brick.

The curbs and the sidewalks that have been damaged by the tearing out of the old paving will be done after the street paving is completed, he said.

Barring bad weather the work will be finished sometime in November, he indicated.

BRIDGES CLOSED

Truck Breaks Through Wayne Street Structure.

Two bridges in Mansfield were closed today for repairs, one on Wayne street near the Tappan Stove plant, and the other on Water street.

The Wayne street bridge was damaged yesterday when a construction truck belonging to the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company passed over the bridge and broke through the roadbed.

County highway workers were repairing the damage today.

The small bridge that spans Touby's Run on Water street near the Mulberry street viaduct, was closed because of a damaged surface.

The bridge will be closed for more than a week, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1940.

Some folks are so forgetful that they regard July heat as unusual.

Robert Quillen's observation on political speeches: "They still work on the assumption that most of the voters are half-wits."

Those objectors to national defense are probably still quite confident that Great Britain's navy will be able to take care of us.

Seven Candidates for President

AMONG the impressive manifestations of individual freedom, as accorded in the United States of America, is the zealous safeguarding of the rights of law-abiding minorities to follow their own conscience and judgment, no matter how ridiculous their actions may appear to majorities.

There are, for instance, nominees of SEVEN political parties contending for the presidency this year—not merely the two whom you have been hearing about.

The mere fact that these minor parties attract only small percentages of the total vote does not prevent them from adding materially to the cost of holding elections by having the names of their candidates on ballots in every voting precinct in the country.

As an example, John W. Aiken, who polled little above 12,000 votes four years ago, is again the presidential candidate of the Socialist Labor party, with a platform urging the end of capitalism and formation of socialist industrial unions.

Again heading the Socialist ticket is Norman Thomas, who received 187,720 votes in 1936 and who is calmly confident that he will not be elected this year.

Also a candidate is Roger W. Babson, Massachusetts statistician, who carries the banner for the Prohibition party, which drew 37,847 votes four years ago.

Then there is the Communist party, headed again by the notorious Earl Browder who is fighting to escape a four-year prison term after conviction for passport fraud. In 1936 Browder received 80,159 votes as Communist candidate for president.

Last, but possibly not much least, is the National Greenback party, for which John Zahnd, of Indianapolis, is the standard bearer, and the purposes of which are not entirely clear.

Also worthy of mention in this year's campaign is the obvious change in alignment of voters in the two major parties, which, while retaining the names "Democratic" and "Republican," are quite clearly undergoing changes of principles and personnel that may exert an unpredictable influence on the outcome of the November election.

Keep Awake While Driving

ONE of the not infrequent causes of disastrous traffic crashes is the instant of unconsciousness which motorists sometimes experience after having been a long time at the wheel or when lulled to drowsiness by the purr of the motor.

Even when traveling at ordinary speed it is necessary for the driver to be wide awake and constantly on the alert to assure his own safety and that of other persons using streets and highways.

While night driving is especially conducive to dozing at the wheel, accidents from this cause are also quite common to daylight motoring, particularly on hot afternoons.

It has become a fixed habit with many careful motorists to note the first indication of a feeling of drowsiness and to stop immediately for a brief rest before driving farther.

Awakening from a nap to find your car headed toward a ditch, or directly in the path of one coming from the opposite direction, cannot be other than an unpleasant experience—with likelihood of death or serious injuries to self and others.

Slower Growth of Big Cities

MULLING over new census reports, many commentators find satisfaction in the stabilizing of big city populations. Most of them are no longer growing like mushrooms.

In many cases the communities are still growing, but the new growth is mainly around the edges, in the form of suburbs. This is a natural trend, resulting largely from the almost universal use of automobiles, which easily spread a marginal population and produce a city-country effect.

The standstill of city population may be a good thing on the whole, especially when it is supported by suburban satellite towns. It stops the rising costs which accompany city growth, making unnecessary the continuous building of new schools, opening of new streets, and so on. Many cities are beginning to appreciate such relief, in spite of the traditional faith that an American city can, and should go on growing forever.

Green Fields Replace 'Dust Bowls'

THE "dust bowl" has become a cereal bowl again, and recent fears have vanished. Scorched plains in Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico have turned into green fields filled with corn, wheat, kaffir and cotton, a joy to the eyes, and no less a joy to the "pocket nerve."

Thus it is evident that those 100,000 square miles or more have not turned to a permanent desert, as so many feared. They can probably expect at least one good year out of five, as long as the soil doesn't all blow away. And the "tree belts" should help with that.

Scientists may attribute this good fortune to the weather cycle which is said to bring an extra wet period about every 11 or 12 years. There may be plentiful rains again next year.

The "plow that broke the plains" so dramatically, it may be recalled, was kept abnormally busy to provide grain for Europe toward the end of the last war. That would have been just about two rain cycles ago. Observers will wonder whether the lesson has really been learned.

Fiscal Outlook Not Bright

TREASURY receipts for the fiscal year which ended June 30 are not as high as hoped. More than half the increase over the preceding year's total came from social security payments. Corporate and individual income taxes yielded only a small increase over last year.

National expenditures are increasing considerably faster than receipts. The new tax rates are likely to swell next year's income, but no one can tell now how much. It is not a pleasing picture and suggests to thoughtful citizens that there'll have to be more belt-tightening for government.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

Government and Agriculture

By WALTER E. SPAHR,
Professor of Economics,
New York University.

THE New Deal has tried one agricultural program after another and yet has contributed little or nothing of any lasting value toward solving the problems of the farmer. The Democratic or New Deal party will soon prepare its political plank on agriculture and match it against that of the Republicans.

Both of these planks, like the New Deal agricultural programs, will fail to reach the heart of the farmers' problems. The reasons are worth noting and if they are understood, less will be sought from the government, regardless of party, and there may be fewer illusions to shed.

Political platforms, of necessity, are broad generalizations; the farmers' problems are many and varied and cannot be generalized accurately or easily. There are cotton farmers, wheat farmers, fruit farmers, dairymen, and raisers of corn, hogs, and wheat, and so on, each with his more or less peculiar problems.

Political parties try to provide quick solutions; but many of the most far-reaching problems of the farmers are deep-seated and cannot be solved in a short time. Of course one party may do far more than another to open the way to improved agricultural conditions but "solutions" within a four- or eight-year period are beyond any political party for the following reasons:

Farm prices are subject to forces of demand that, to a large degree, are international in scope. Often they are erratic. When demand falls sharply, supply cannot respond quickly. Or supply may fluctuate because of weather conditions, and not in response to demand. When demand falls, about all that farmers can do is to produce more, not less, and thus aggravate the situation.

Then, too, farming is a way of life; many people wish to live on farms despite the low incomes relative to costs. This factor in itself tends to make agriculture a continually depressed industry. People on farms resist, or cannot make rapid adjustments to the pressure of tendencies in demand, whereas in industry, adjustments are rapid. Subsidies to farmers tend to obstruct or delay the needed adjustments.

The solutions would be along the following lines, but they require time:

(1) Children of farmers should be educated for more profitable activities.

(2) The Department of Agriculture should show farmers how to diversify their crops better.

(3) Taxes on farms are far too high, considering the farmer's income and investment, and should be reduced.

(4) Farmers should try to grow more things that industry can use.

(5) Industry, through chemurgy, should, and doubtless will, find greater use for certain agricultural products.

(6) Rural electrification should be helpful.

(7) The Departments of State and Agriculture should try to find new foreign markets for the farmer.

(8) Temporarily, at least, the farmer should be given the home market by the exclusion of foreign competing products.

Listen, World!

They Got What They Asked For.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TRIPE, that's what they are. Meaning most of these run-o'-the-mill movies. Tripe 'n' twaddle. Bilge and bunkum. Fizzle-dust that wouldn't fool a day-old duck. But now and then there's one that really lives . . . goes places . . . loves, laughs, sweats, sobs, curses . . . reaches shaking hands to the stars, even out of a gutter.

That new one, f'instance, that's starring Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff, "The Great McGinty." It may be in your town by the time you read this. Donlevy and Tamiroff, these two would spell dynamite in any setting. However ga-ga. It's our rare good luck that Hollywood dared to line them up against Life-As-Is without a haircut.

Mind you, it isn't a pretty story. Anything but! Nor a complimentary one to this particular Democracy. If there has ever been a franker expose of American politics as demonstrated in some of our direct action districts I've yet to see it. And if you've GOTTA have a happy ending—though why should you? this is no place for you and your infantile tastes. But if you are mature enough to face Truth without trimmings, here 'tis.

Two men who'd gone wrong, derelicts in a tropical dive. A slovenly sneak-thief behind the bar . . . a drunken drifter leaning over it. The scum of despair over mouths that had once been firm . . . eyes that had once burned and laughed.

Two men together in a tropical dive, sharing the same shameless fate. Yet one had been honest all his life, save for one crazy moment. And the other had been a brigand always. Yet each, in the end, got what he asked for, what he'd worked for. And each would have called you a star-spangled liar if you told him so!

There was "The Great McGinty" himself—Brian Donlevy who'd risen from a bread-line bum to be governor of a great state. And how he'd risen! By every corrupt device which enables some men still to rise to power in these United States. And the producers pulled no punches in revealing those details to the last crooked detail. Wonder what some of our more fluid patriots are going to say when they see that proclaimed. Plenty, I bet! Yet it's probably the greatest thing in the whole story. And if Mr. Hayes pulls out a single line or if they back down a single inch, I'm off them for life!

We've needed that expose, we smug, self-satisfied Americans. We're so sure that all the bigger, badder vice is in Alcatraz or Sing Sing instead of right under our negligent noses. Well, here's proof that it isn't—actual proof that checks with endless unwelcome evidence in our own lives. Here are "things we've known were going on" but took infinite pains not to face. Face them now—and bring your High School Youngster with you. Or take that flag off your wall!

A bum and bandit, selling his vote, looting his state, trapped in the end in the hell he'd built himself. And the other? An irreproachable pillar of society. Respected citizen, valued worker, beloved father and husband. Yet, in the end, as surely snared by the unexpected harvest of his own secret, secret-sowing. Funny? No! The grimmest Truth on earth.

THE WAGES OF SIN IS — WHAT YOU ASK FOR!

They asked for it, each in his own way. And landed across the same stinking bar.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Willy Nilly.

Willy nilly, constantly met in ordinary speech and printed word, is no meaningless hodge-podge of sounds; rather, it is a corruption of a once dignified phrase, its earliest form.

Willy nilla then was first Will I will I meaning "Whether I will or not" therefore "without choice."

Will I, will I the original expression appears in many 16th century works, subsequently, subjected to the attrition of popular usage, it became modified to the form in which we know it today willy nilly.

Magnesium for National Defense; Son Elliott Rooted for Bankhead

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Not many people knew it, but Andrew Mellon's Aluminum Corporation of America was one of the U. S. concerns co-operating with Germany to maintain high prices on certain raw materials necessary for national defense.

The Aluminum Corporation controlled the supply of magnesium for the United States. This metal is used as an alloy in substitute for aluminum in the manufacture of airplane parts. It is absolutely essential to the airplane industry. Yet the Magnesium Development company, jointly owned by the Aluminum Corporation of America and the I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany, has enjoyed virtually a world monopoly of this metal.

The I. G. Farbenindustrie, of course, is now completely Nazified and dominated by the German government.

Under the joint control, Mr. Mellon's company in the United States agreed to produce only 2,000 tons of magnesium a year, while Mr. Hitler's company in Germany produced 10,000 tons annually. As a result, prices were high.

Not long ago, the department of justice began to probe the monopoly holdings of raw materials and the degree of co-operation existing between American firms and German. Details of this probe were published in the Washington Merry-Go-Round.

The other day, John W. Davis, attorney for the Aluminum Corporation of America, came in to see Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, who has done more to reduce prices than any other man in America, and promised him the full co-operation of his client. He said the Aluminum Corporation would be glad to produce magnesium for national defense purposes, and co-operate in every other way possible.

Mother Knows Best.

THE morning after the Democratic convention nominated the president for a third term, Jim Farley called up his young son, Jimmy, at a camp in New Hampshire.

"How'you, champ," he greeted the boy.

"Hi, dad, how did you make out last night?"

"I got licked."

"Well," was the comforting reply, "that will please mother."

Note—Jolly Mrs. Farley intensely dislikes Washington, long has wanted her husband to quit politics.

* * *

My Son, My Son.

IT DIDN'T leak out at the time, but things got pretty hot for Elliott Roosevelt during the turbulent battle over Henry Wallace on the last night of the Chicago convention.

Although his father had declared for Wallace as vice presidential nominee, Elliott raged about the convention floor rooting for Speaker Bankhead. In the course of his operations, Elliott told members of the Mississippi delegation that his father had personally informed him that while he favored Wallace, Bankhead and McNutt also were acceptable.

Therefore the thing to do, Elliott declared, was to work out a compromise; and Bankhead was his choice.

Coming from the second son of the president, the Mississippi delegates naturally considered the information straight from the White House and spread the word. When it reached worried administration floor leaders they rushed to Senator Jimmy Byrnes, who, from the rostrum, was directing Wallace's fight. Jimmy dashed for a nearby phone and told the president what had happened.

Roosevelt's reply was that he hadn't talked to Elliott in over a month, so naturally could not have told him what he claimed.

"I am for Wallace and no one else," Roosevelt added. "Further, you have my authority to state that if he is not nominated, I won't run."

After Byrnes transmitted this message to the Texas delegation, Elliott piped down.

Note—When Wallace, at 2 a. m., immediately after his hard-won victory, telephoned the president and thanked him, Roosevelt advised that he immediately see Bankhead, Farley, Jesse Jones and McNutt and thank them for their sportsmanship. The president personally telephoned McNutt and commended him as a "gallant soldier who performed a great public service tonight."

Camera Opposites.

THE new Republican members of Roosevelt's cabinet, Secretaries Stimson and Knox, are peas-in-a-pod to senate isolationists, but they are poles apart with capital newsreelers.

Stimson, 72, grave and intense, has no time for such fol-de-rol as pictures and cameras. As secretary of state under Hoover he used to brush photographers aside with a pre-occupied "too busy" and he does the same now.

They almost had to "talk their heads off" to get him to pose after his recent confirmation as secretary of war. Finally he consented, with the reservation that there was to be no sound.

"But, Mr. Secretary," the boys wailed, "a newsreel is a flop without sound."

"No sound," reiterated Stimson firmly, and there was no sound.

Colonel Knox, 66, who has published newspapers all his life, is a different story. He knows the problems the photographers face and goes out of his way to help them. After his confirmation he spent an hour patiently posing and talking for the reels. Also, he was keenly interested in the results.

Running into one of the cameramen at the White House several days later, the secretary of the navy inquired, "How'd those pictures turn out? Let me know when they come to town."

Merry-Go-Round.

LEADERS of the California "ham and egg" pension movement, three times turned down by the voters, are secretly propositioning the GOP on a campaign alliance. . . . John T. Jones, Maryland United Mine Workers official, whom John L. Lewis installed as head of Labor's Non-partisan League after New Dealer Eli Oliver quit, is a lifelong registered Republican. . . . Representative Mike Monroney how his boasting to his colleague Representative Mike Monroney how his talented nine-year old daughter, Joan, had made speeches for him in the recent primary. "Now I understand why you won by such a big majority," laughed Monroney.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Last night we went backstage at the Plymouth theater in West 45th street and had a perfectly delightful talk with an old friend of ours—Lyle Talbot. We hadn't seen him, to talk to, since he was a leading man in a midwest stock company, so there was a lot of ground to cover as we sat there chewing over old times. That was an interesting stock company, the Hartman company of Columbus, and it gave four successive leading men to Hollywood. The first was Ralph Harold, still in pictures. Donn Cook was next, and Donn has just finished a long run on Broadway in "Skylark" with Gertrude Lawrence, who got married in Connecticut a couple of weeks ago. The third leading man to jump from Columbus to the films was Melvin Douglas, and finally Lyle himself.

Although there are only a dozen plays on Broadway, Lyle's is one of these. It is a comedy called "Separate Rooms," and that it has gradually won its way into box office favor has been something of a personal triumph for Talbot, and for Glenda Farrell and Alan Dinehart, who are the three principal players in the cast. The show opened to melancholy notices and this is nearly always fatal. But since then at least 25 plays, many of them bearing the best names of the Broadway theater, have come and gone.

"It looks like it will run through the summer and into the winter," Lyle said. "Every week it gets stronger and stronger."

ONE of the girls in the Columbus company, when Lyle was its leading man, was a tall, serious girl with long gangling legs who used to like to walk in the rain and, so many believed, be like Garbo. Her name then was Jean Fullarton and she was altogether sincere in her devotion to the theater. Later she too turned up in pictures and made quite a success for herself under the name of Jean Muir. Jean was a Scot, and as I remember her telling it, she came over to this country when she was only a lassie of seven. Her mother still lives in New York and, for fun, runs a tiny but very attractive bookshop not far from Sheridan Sq.

Lyle's dressingroom looks out on a fire escape that leads down into 45th street. As he talked he said, "Don't let me forget to close that window when we go out. I've been leaving it open lately and the other night while I was on stage someone climbed up the fireescape and rolled me for $125."

NEW YORK isn't always kind to its visitors from Hollywood, and I asked Lyle if he had noticed—as a general thing—the attitude of the critics toward newcomers from pictures.

"It's like this," he said. "I'm no more a Hollywood actor than you are. I'm a stage actor. They asked me to go out to Hollywood and make a few pictures, which I did. But I was on the stage before I ever heard of Hollywood, and I've never considered myself as anything other than a stage actor. I have noticed that attitude. That is why I am so gratified with the way "Separate Rooms" has turned out. It is a sort of personal little victory for Glenda and Alan and myself. All of us have new offers to go back to Hollywood since this play has caught on, but we refused. We are going to stay right here and have some fun. We may even go on the road with it after the New York run, but that is looking ahead."

This Is Ohio

Enough salt underlies more than 7,000 square miles of Ohio's surface to meet easily requirements of all the world.

Salt used by the early settlers of Ohio was brought in by packhorse and boat from points east of the Appalachian Mountains. Then they found numerous licks and from the crude refining of those early times has developed a salt industry with an annual output well over $3,000,000.

A Farmer's Diary

The Mountain

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I TRAVELED on the winding highway where a mountain, towering high above, looked down upon the placid river and the glassy surface bore the image in its bosom, like it bears the moon and stars on a quiet night.

I have seen the low level floor of clouds and mist obscure the mountain side and paint it pale blue-gray, but high above, the summit rose and was glorified by the sunlight of a perfect day. Long shadows moved repeatedly along the giant sides and crest, like dark waves that pass far beyond my view.

Cities and small villages nestle securely along its base, and at its giant foot streams and rivers flow along. Springs gurgle and fret their way down the rocky slopes where moss and leaning shrubs are cooled and moistened by the splashing current. Giant trees live and thrive upon the steep inclines. Hardy mountain laurel wreaths it beautifully. Painted Indian Moccasin grows upon the narrow level summit. Rare fragrant arbutus creeps near some hehened stones. I lasted with keen relish the new tender leaves and bloom of wintergreen.

Here on this endless space, the bear, the fox, the deer and mountain lion move in perfect freedom. It is their own domain. The thick folds of the leafy slope hide them from human eyes.

The mountain is father of the fertile plain, for during the silent sweep of ages past, its rock-ribbed sides were washed. The frost, the wind, the rain have broken free the mighty boulders and in some climactic moment crashed a deep, rugged path to the flatter base. Like the mills of the gods the elements have ground the giant rocks to silty fineness and deposited them as green and lovely fields between wide ranges.

The grandeur of a mountain is handiwork such as the poor feeble hands of man can never touch. From a high summit I looked down upon acres covered by one of the great cities of this country. The distance seemed so small from where I stood I could have gathered the entire space within my arms; the ships upon the bright blue patch of water were so tiny I could have sent them scudding with one breath; the pointed towers looked so diminutive I could have spanned them with the fingers of both hands. At evening the majestic mountain casts a protectory shadow over the city and all the land for miles about.

PLANE FACTORY 12 MILES FROM LONDON BOMBED

Nazi Speedboat Makes Raid Across Channel to Sink Armed Merchant Ship.

lay in launching his long-threatened blitzkrieg on Britain.

Another possible reason was advanced by the London Daily Telegraph. Quoting "the most reliable neutral sources," the newspaper said a serious difference of opinion among Hitler's advisers was holding up the projected invasion.

Hitler's warplanes nevertheless kept up the bombing of the United Kingdom.

Anti-aircraft guns chattered again on the southeast coast and the sky was reported "alive with aircraft" as about 80 German raiders swarmed down to attack a merchant convoy in the English channel. British fighting planes quickly sent them fleeing.

Britain also took steps to plug a blockade leakage of oil shipments through Fascist Spain to Germany.

Hitler's need of oil and still more oil to fuel and lubricate his mechanized war machine was pointed only yesterday when the pro-Nazi Rumanian government seized the biggest British oil company in the Balkan kingdom. The confiscated oil may now go to Germany.

Italians also began to feel the pinch of the British blockade as Mussolini's government decreed still another meatless day—making four "vegetarian days" a week—and ordered sharp rationing of bread in restaurants.

The British people's will to victory appeared in a stronger light than ever today when the $13,868,000,000 budget of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood—based upon the heaviest taxation in British history—was condemned as "timid and inadequate."

With one accord, the London press clamored for "a real war budget," despite the fact that Britons already are paying a 42½ per cent income tax.

The question of oil for Germany shared interest with attacks on the "puny" budget.

The Financial Times in London declared the British government "will want definite assurances from Spain that oil supplies do not go to Germany."

At the same time, the United States, by prohibiting the sailing of American tankers bound for Spain, placed a virtual embargo on such shipments which might reach Germany and Italy, it was reported in Washington.

This heightening of the pace of economic warfare was accompanied by an apparent slackening-off in actual warfare. Not a single Nazi bomber appeared over Britain last night—only the second time this has happened since June 18—but this morning an English merchant convoy in the North sea, aided by fighter planes, fought off two German raids.

American-made dive bombers, export models of planes used by the U. S. Navy, are being used by German sky raiders in pounding England, the British disclosed.

The British air ministry said today the planes apparently were captured by the Nazis from the French.

The war struck again yesterday at the Holy Land, held under British mandate, with a toll of 46 civilian dead and 88 wounded when ten planes, presumably Italian, dropped 80 to 100 high explosives into the streets and harbor of the port of Haifa.

The British reported one of the German-used American planes shot down, another riddled with bullets and 11 other German aircraft destroyed in the dawn-to-dark duelling over the English coast yesterday.

An announcement by Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's minister for aircraft production, that the United States would approve a production plan to supply England 3,000 planes a month met only partial confirmation last night from defense officials in Washington.

They said they agreed to the 3,000 planes a month program, beginning early next year, if it could be accomplished. Present production of planes in the United States is not more than 600 a month, partly taken up by home defense demands.

The U. S. state department disclosed American ministers had been called home from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, Baltic nations which have petitioned to be taken into the Soviet Union.

Discloses Austrian Hatred of Nazis

WASHINGTON (AP) An underground movement in Austria plans to revolt against German domination, Archduke Otto Von Hapsburg, heir to the non-existent Austro-Hungarian throne, said today.

The 27-year-old archduke said he was "confident" that Germany would not win the European war because Adolf Hitler "cannot hold out in the long run." He added that there is "total opposition" to the German regime in Austria but that the people dare not make it vocal.

"The majority of Austrians want the monarchy as soon as we achieve independence," he said. "But they are also democratic, and I am sure that both will be restored to Austria.

"Monarchy and democracy are not incompatible. They go hand in hand."

Otto and his 24-year-old brother, Prince Felix, told of their hopes for restoration of the ancient imperial Hapsburg crown during a visit with Chairman Sol Bloom of the house foreign affairs committee.

EQUITY REPORT SHOWS PROFIT

SHELBY—Stockholders of the Shelby Equity company were told at their annual meeting yesterday that the company had made a net profit of $14,750 during the past fiscal year ending May 31. Total assets of the company was set at $74,008.66. The total liabilities of the company are listed at $4,014.50. The total net assets of the company are $69,994.16.

During the meeting, E. A. Adams was elected president; Carl L. Wentz, vice president; C. L. Shoup, secretary-treasurer and Dan Sipe and Walter Lake, directors.

The date of the annual meeting was changed to October for 1941 instead of July as it had been in the past.

tient had been dismissed. Then announced:

"I may as well tell you . . I'm going to kill you both"

The doctor, an enormous man of 320 pounds, reached into his desk for a pistol. Before he could take aim, a bullet from the stranger's gun pierced his wrist. Then four other shots echoed and the doctor sprawled across the desk.

Mrs. Miller hysterical with fear, ran screaming to an adjoining office. There was no one left to halt the killer's flight, downstairs to Exchange street, along the sidewalk and into an alley. He was not seen again.

Assigning an entire detective squad to the case, Inspector Gross found it "one of the most perplexing of my career.

"Everywhere we went," he recounted today, "we turned up a new angle.

"For instance, Dr. Miller didn't keep records or case histories . . . at least we couldn't find any, so secret was the nature of his practice.

"We thought for a while he might have been shot by some one trying to shake him down but there was nothing to substantiate that.

"Then some of his patients began coming in and we heard stories that led us to believe he was a man of many enemies. The 'leads' went in all directions — to Cleveland, Youngstown, Warren, Canton, Columbus, Mansfield, Sandusky, and Lorain. We're going to run them all down and some day we'll find the person who can tell us what we want to know."

Inspector Cross called the slain man's practice a "cash on the line proposition worth about $1,200 a month."

On this income, earned at the small office above a drug store, the physician and his 34-year-old wife, Ruby, lived in a swank cottage near Akron's east reservoir. They were not active socially, Dr. Miller devoting many of his extra hours to becoming an expert rifle shot and to such avocations as painting and photography.

A graduate of Harvard University and fellow student of President Roosevelt, Dr. Miller occasionally sent to the White House written comments on the state of national affairs. He was an outspoken agnostic and although he requested his ashes be strewn by airplane over his boyhood home in Massachusetts, he was buried here at services attended by six persons.

'MISS MANSFIELD' CHOSEN, SHE GETS SET FOR AIRPLANE TOUR

Meet Miss Mansfield — chosen yesterday by a committee from the Junior Association of Commerce to represent the city in a state-wide contest Saturday night at New Philadelphia and to fly to the local airport for ceremonies welcoming the all-Ohio air tour Sunday afternoon.

Her name is Emily Haberbuchler. She lives at 471 Hammond avenue. She's five feet tall, weighs 115 pounds and is 24 years old.

And she's all excited over winning the J. A. C. contest conducted through a study of photographs and interviews with contestants by the committee.

"I'm so thrilled I hardly know what to say," she told members of the committee at her home yesterday, "because I just love airplanes and I've never made a cross country flight before."

Miss Haberbuchler will fly with the flotilla of 100 planes on the tour from Alliance to the local airport, arriving here Sunday at 3:50 p. m. for a program which will include a concert by the high school band and talks by city and aviation officials.

"I've been in planes before, of course," the new Miss Mansfield explained, "but only on short hops from the local field. I think it's going to be grand."

Accompanied by a party of J. A. C. members and their wives, Miss Haberbuchler will go to New Philadelphia Saturday for the Air Tour ball which will be attended by Governor John Bricker and at which Miss Ohio Air Tour will be chosen.

At the airport Sunday she will receive an award from the local Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Haberbuchler can lay some claim to being a typical Miss Mansfield as well as to being the contest winner. She attended Hedges school and graduated from Mansfield high school and now is employed at the Hoff Manufacturing company.

As an added feature of the Sunday airport program, Richard Burnham, chairman of the event, today announced that a model airplane kit, complete with gasoline motor, will be given away to the Mansfield boy who writes the best 20 words on "Why I want a model plane."

Entries should be written on the backs of free ballots obtainable at Mansfield Athletic Supply store, the Charles Ritter company, Yunckers, E. C. Peat store, and the Schmidt and Peat hardware. Boxes for receiving the ballots will also be on display at these stores. Judging will be done Sunday at the airport.

of 73.8. But rains again last night made comfortable sleeping possible.

Electrical storms accompanied by heavy rains struck in the Fremont and Canton vicinities. A small tornado south of Fremont demolished several farm buildings and interrupted power service in Fremont.

The Fremont water supply was shut off for three hours during the power interruption in order to conserve the reserve supply for emergencies.

Electricity also was shut down at nearby Clyde where two inches of rain fell within a short time.

Canton reported a heavy rainfall. In Columbus, 1,000 state employes were dismissed from work two hours early in the afternoon because of the heat.

Shoots His Father.

Because he found no ice water in the ice box when he came home from a hot day's work, William Johnson, jr., 22, colored, shot his father three times, in their Columbus home, police said.

New drownings included Charles Adams, 15, Osborn, drowned in a water-filled gravel pit, Donald H. Pointing, 15, Cleveland, drowned in the Rocky river, and Dan Zimmerman, 19, Cleveland, who disappeared in Gordon Park lake.

Dead from heat prostration were Joseph Kerutis, 70, laborer, and Hyman L. Meyer, 56, meat market operator, both of Cleveland.

This brought to a total of 35 the number of deaths in Ohio attributable to the seven-day scorch wave.

Yesterday the thermometer touched the high 90's officially in most of the state for the hottest day of the year. Unofficial readings of 100 degrees plus were common.

The government mercury recorded 98 at Wilmington, 97 at Cincinnati Cleveland, Marion, Norwalk, Circleville, Lima, Dayton; 96 at Napoleon, Sidney, 95 at Columbus; 94 at Jackson, Ashland; 93 at Canton, Cambridge; 100, Sandusky.

In some sections the old saw "It's not the heat, it's the humidity" held true. At Washington, D. C., the temperature was only 89 but the humidity was 59 per cent, the highest this year. Water consumption in the capital was estimated at a record 150,000,000 gallons daily, only 5,000,000 gallons below the capacity of the pumping system, but no shortage was expected.

Portland, Ore., reported a cool 73 degree maximum yesterday with the mercury at 64 last night. A cool breeze also was reported at Dallas, Tex., where thermometers recorded 85 degrees after a maximum 97 and at New York official readings early today showed 72 degrees. Cleveland reported that temperatures had fallen to 71 after the mercury had risen to 97.

The U. S. weather bureau reported that the extended heat wave had begun to damage the corn crop, particularly in the southwest. The damage has not reached serious proportions, however, and cotton cultivation and wheat harvesting were reported benefitted by the hot sun.

Roosevelt Meets Wallace to Discuss Campaign Plans

SUCCESSOR TO FARLEY FAILS TO WORRY FDR

Has Given Appointment of Manager No Thought. Says President.

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt returned to Washington today to meet for the first time since the Chicago convention with his 1940 running mate, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The Democratic standard bearers will map out their campaign strategy against the Republican ticket of Wendell L. Willkie and Senator Charles L. McNary at today's session.

Also, it was expected that Mr. Roosevelt would discuss with Wallace the choice of a campaign manager to succeed James A. Farley, who is retiring as Democratic national chairman on Aug. 17. A committee of five from the national committee headed by Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader, will wait on the president Aug. 1 to determine his wishes in the matter. So far, the chief executive says he has given the appointment no thought.

In advance of his meeting with Wallace, the president had denounced Republican demands that the Iowan should resign from the cabinet to make his vice-presidential run. Mr. Roosevelt rejected the opposition argument that Wallace should not be permitted to direct expenditure of large sums in farm benefits while making a national campaign.

The chief executive pointed out that Herbert Hoover did not resign from the Coolidge cabinet in 1928, and said he could see no difference between spending forty or fifty million dollars in commerce department and spending two or three hundred millions in the agriculture department.

Before the end of the week Mr. Roosevelt plans to see Jim Farley and find out when his 1932 and 1936 campaign manager wants to retire as postmaster general. They also probably will discuss the New York outlook as Farley is retaining the democratic state chairmanship and has promised to support the third term ticket. Farley is expected to assume the presidency of the New York Yankee baseball club on Sept. 1.

Willkie Returns To Vacation Spot

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(INS)—Wendell Willkie quit the rodeo circuit today and headed by plane for his vacation spot in Colorado Springs after having made important contacts in Wyoming and Utah which may be translated into votes in November.

The high spot of his brief visit in Salt Lake was the attendance of President Heber Grant of the Church of Latter Day Saints at a small luncheon given for the candidate by the covered wagon days celebration committee.

The venerable churchman has been ill and seldom attends any function. That he attended the luncheon for Willkie was generally interpreted as a favorable gesture toward the candidate and that is important in this state and city in which the church founded by Joseph Smith is so strong.

Utah has been Democratic since 1932 when Roosevelt carried it and Senator Reed Smoot, an apostle of the Latter Day Saints, was defeated for re-election. It would be a distinct feather in Willkie's cap to win it back.

He was well received both in Salt Lake and in Ogden where he spent an hour at the pioneer days celebration and rodeo.

With the thermometer hovering close to the 100 degree mark more than 2,000 persons crowded into the ballroom of the Hotel Utah to shake hands with the candidate and hear him pledge himself to "preservation of the Democratic way."

At Ogden, packed stands after [illegible] the rodeo applauded the candidate's entry and applauded [illegible] when he was introduced as the man of [illegible].

CHICAGO—(UP)—The coast guard reported today that two of its cutters and an airplane are cruising the waters of Lake Michigan in the vicinity of Mackinac island in a search for several sailing yachts caught last night in a strong wind.

The cutter Antietam, out of Milwaukee, and an airplane from the Traverse City, Mich., coast guard station, also were participating in the search.

SPECIAL COURT

Tribunal Established Soon to Try Daladier.

VICHY, France—(AP)—A special tribunal will be set up to try former Premier Edouard Daladier and other former government leaders for responsibility for France's entry into the war and for her defeat, it was indicated today.

Establishment of the tribunal can be expected shortly, it was indicated, and some journalists may be tried along with the government leaders.

A military court will look into the cases of men who were in the armed forces at the time of incurring alleged responsibilities for the war. They will be investigated for responsibility for the unsuccessful military leadership.

The press began a special "build-up" for the trial today, just two days after arrival of Daladier, several of his former aides and members of parliament at Marseille from French Morocco, whither they sailed just before signing of the French-German armistice. These men now are confined to Marseille under orders of Marshal Philippe Petain's government.

Newspapers became increasingly bitter against these former leaders.

SHIP SAILS ON SEALED ORDERS

Transport Believed Headed For European Waters to Remove Americans.

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK—Believed headed for the war-menaced waters of Europe to evacuate Americans from Scandinavian countries, the United States army transport American Legion will sail from Brooklyn this afternoon under sealed orders.

Army officials admitted that it was "most unusual" for a transport to sail "under the precautions usually reserved for naval vessels."

A brief statement issued by army information service only heightened the drama of the projected voyage. Waters around the Scandinavian peninsula are mined.

The official statement declared:

"Col. James H. Laubach, superintendent of the army transport service, New York port of embarkation, today announced that the army transport American Legion was to sail sometime today under sealed orders.

"The captain of the transport will open his sealed orders when he is well under way at sea and the destination will be disclosed."

Mosley and other leaders were taken into custody some weeks ago in a widespread drive against suspected "fifth columnists."

GARLIC FACTORY

PILROY, Cal. — (INS) — Please, gentlemen, could they put a $40,000 factory with a large payroll in the town of Gilroy, a Los Angeles concern asked the city fathers. Officials, after recovering from their surprise, learned the reason for the company's unusual attitude. It seems they want to erect an onion and garlic powder manufacturing plant and such an edifice smells like it sounds. The company wanted to be certain that Gilroy citizens wouldn't complain. Gilroyans are willing to ignore any odors in return for the 50 jobs the plant would offer.

PRESTO-CHANGO SYSTEM WORKS JUST SO LONG

Magnet Manipulator Shows How to Beat Pin-Ball Machines Often.

TOLEDO — William McShane was worrying the restaurant proprietor no end. He and his wife, Betty, played the pin-ball machines, nickel after nickel, night after night.

The pin-ball mania is a common enough disease; and restaurant owners are usually quite tolerant towards sufferers, but McShane was different: he won! And he kept winning.

The proprietor detailed five stalwarts to keep a close watch over McShane. Soon the "boys" noticed that the customer, kept waving his hands over the pin-ball machine in the manner of a conjure-man. And the balls, seemingly hypnotized, followed his movements, falling regularly into the pockets giving the biggest scores.

They leaned a little closer and observed a strange device in McShane's right hand. Investigation disclosed that the device was an electro-magnet attached by wires to a battery in his hip-pocket.

So they tossed McShane and his wife out into the street.

McShane and his wife ran to the nearest police station where they were taken into "protective custody." Their troubles, however, were not over for the police confiscated the device.

McShane told police that he is an unemployed sign repairman—unemployed because found it too tiresome to repair signs days and play pinballs at night. He built the magnetic device a year ago in Cokato, Minn., and had been in Toledo 10 days. The McShanes said the visit had been a financial success.

TVA Expansion Up as South Awaits Fete

TVA power on Tennessee river

Delores Tatum

While more than 200 communities throughout the seven states of the Tennessee Valley prepare for a mammoth celebration to be held on Chickamauga lake, Chattanooga, Labor Day week-end to formally dedicate the chain of lakes as the "Great Lakes of the South" a $25,000,000 appropriation for TVA power expansion was given the right of way in the house of representatives for a vote. The power increases will be used for production of aluminum for new airplanes and are made by members of President Roosevelt's advisory defense commission. One of the pretty models selected by a Hollywood studio to participate in the TVA fete, Delores Tatum, is shown above.

450-POUND BASS

FORT LIVINGSTON, La.—(U P) —Adam Billiot has caught the largest edible fish ever known in the inland waters of Barataria Bay—all because a "monster" was reported to be devouring the shrimp in Billiot's favorite shrimping grounds.

Billiot after two hours of hard work, landed a 450-pound sea bass or jewfish. Fishermen, including Billiot, had heard tales of a mysterious giant fish which they feared would ruin the crabbing and shrimping upon which they depend for their living.

CONSTRUCT DAM

TOLEDO (U P) Work on the new $9,880,000 water supply system which will bring Lake Erie to Toledo over a 15 mile pipeline is nearly half finished.

A unique coffer dam has been constructed in the lake by sinking two vessels and forming the dam behind them. The ships, the steamer Belgium and the barge Gotham, are used also as storehouses for materials while the dam is being built.

News-Journal Page For Women

Relax to Keep Pleasant

By MME. QUI VIVE

There are women who drive themselves through a day's work as they would never think of driving another person. They take on everybody else's job. They lead breathless lives, chasing from one task to another. They lose youthful spirits and youthful looks as well. What these women need is a little healthy self-indulgence. They also need to learn how to relax.

Can you do a flop, close your eyes, be asleep in five minutes? If so, you're lucky. Is it possible for you to clear your mind of worrisome thoughts and find mental peace? It's a gift. This Drive-Yourself lady of whom we speak today has never tried it. She falls into bed, ties herself into knots, goes over the tough spots of the day and frets about the duties of the morrow.

She's always tired. She feels as if she were born tired; the truth is that she has not organized her life as she should. The atmosphere of the home is charged with her weariness. The children aren't happy. The papa comes home at night, finds no gay welcome awaiting him. His wife takes care of everything and everybody but herself.

Let her see the error of her ways. She's the boss of the home works. She should be its chief ornament. Let her learn how to rest and relax, pull herself all together again, give her nervous system a chance to calm down.

A half hour of complete relaxation once a day will do wonders for her. That much release is due her.

* * *

By employing a system of self hynoptism she can find rest and quiet. She should lie down in a closed room, demand of her family that she be not disturbed.

Closing her eyes she must create visual pictures. Mountains and clouds. Shadowy forms will appear. The clouds will move (We know; we've tried it.) After a time she will see winding roads, rippling streams, trees.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"That goes for you, too," Harry Underwood told Lillian as he kissed her. "But you're such thundering good scouts, even if you are the world's champion fools, that we have to buss you instead of beating you. But don't you pull this sort of stunt again. Our patience may wear out sometime."

"We'll be good." Lillian said meekly, and her big husband grinned down at her.

"You mean you'll take chances on that," he said, "but we haven't time to discuss that now. The Chief wants us over in his room in ten minutes—we have given him the emeralds, and he's now occupied with them, so we'll just have time to listen to the saga of your adventure."

"You must know it already from Dicky," she told him.

"Not so fast!" he admonished her. "He's told me everything he knows, but he only began from the time he heard your catbird call. But we want the "in-between' stuff, every syllable, for you can bet the Chief will want to hear all about it."

A little shiver rippled over me, for I knew my father's most certain disapproval of our action.

"Does he have to know?" I faltered.

"Try to keep it from him," Dicky said. "Better come clean, then if we can soften it up a bit, we will."

"There isn't much to tell that you don't know," I said.

"Please spill that little quickly," Dicky admonished me, and I told him of our arrival at the rendezvous first of all, of our entering the thicket after backing the station wagon into the winding wood path, of Leslie's coming to our hiding place without seeing us and then of our smearing our faces and pretending to be rough marauders as we held Leslie motionless and speechless at pistol's point until Dicky came along and took matters over for us.

There was a second's silence when I had finished. Then Dicky patted my shoulder.

"Not so bad, eh! Harry?" he asked, and there was a distinct note of pride in his voice.

"We ought to kill 'em," Harry answered, "but they sure pulled some trick, and incidentally saved the day. Leslie evidently had sensed Watson was impersonating Mary. The Chief had counted on his agreement to keep away if the Chief did, or did he?"

"Not too much," Dicky answered, "or he wouldn't have had that extra gang of men in ambush. As it is, everything is in the Chief's hands. He has just one objective now, the capture of Leslie and every one of his gang."

"I wouldn't call that a minor operation," Lillian murmured.

"It's some job," her husband agreed, "but the Chief will be able to handle it. And now, let's cut along to his room. The ten minutes will be up by the time we get there."

When we reached my father's room, we found him looking at Queen Olga's famous emerald necklace which was set with smaller diamonds, each of which would have graced a modest betrothal ring.

My father turned and looked at me, at first with so cold and displeased a glance that I quaked, as I always do at his disapproval. Then his lips quirked into a frosty smile, and I knew that I was grudgingly forgiven.

"You have displeased me very much my daughter, by your disobedience. You know that I have forbidden you to go into danger during this trouble. But what I have been told of your—escapade—makes me very proud of you and of Lillian—of your resourcefulness and your bravery. I cannot be angry at you. And now, I want your opinion—and Lillian's. How far can Queen Olga's discretion be trusted?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE FORCING PASS

Whenever it is certain your partner knows you have enough strength to bid again, your pass of an opponent's bid is an absolute force upon him to take some action when it is his turn. It commands him either to double the opponents or bid again. It gives him an option, telling him, in effect, that you don't know whether the side can score a profitable set or not, and that you are putting the decision up to him. If he passes, instead of doubling or bidding, your only recourse is to look for a new partner.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥
2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

What a terrible pass was that last one by North! His pass on the preceding round was really good bridge, because there was no very clear-cut good bid he could make himself and he knew from South's game-guarantee jump that South was prepared to do something. In fact, that pass was a good one, to give South a chance to double if he wished.

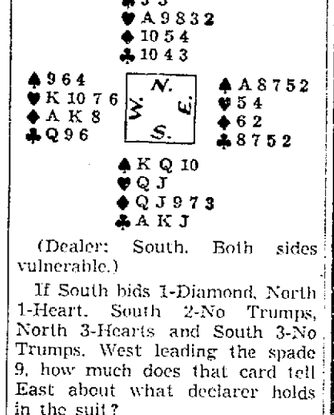

But when South had passed East's 4-Hearts, he put the problem up to North to see if North would rather double than bid. When North felt he could not double the bid profitably, his duty was to call 5-Clubs. This could have been made easily, with the loss of only one trick each in the two red suits. North had enough cards to support the suit, which had been bid first by South and therefore was probably of at least five cards, the spades being probably only four.

The basic difference between North's first pass and his second one was that the first time he was passing a bid by West, so that South would surely get another chance, whereas the second time he was passing a bid by East, and South would get no more chance at it.

The 4-Hearts got set only one trick not doubled, small consolation for loss of a game.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Diamond, North 1-Heart, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Hearts and South 3-No Trumps, West leading the spade 9, how much does that card tell East about what declarer holds in the suit?

HOROSCOPE

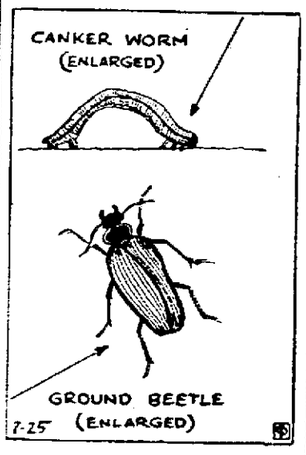

For Friday, July 26.

THE LUNAR auguries are for a continuance of high-pressure initiative, and with the added verve found in some sort of constructive changes in plans or methods of development. Other forms of departure from the normal or routine may be necessary, involving new scenes or strange personalities. There should be decided progress, although it would be advisable to exercise vigilance and precaution with all manner of papers, contracts or documents. Affix signatures carefully to all writings. In the personal affiliations there may be lively and happy engagements.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a lively and progressive year with many important developments of a wholly constructive and satisfying nature. The element of change may be necessary, either in plans, contacts or environs, but not of a major or disruptive consequence.

Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY

MEET A FRIEND BEETLE

Beetles are repulsive to most people, but it is a serious mistake to kill all beetles believing them to be harmful or loathsome. Nature has a way of balancing things in the outdoor world and people, by their crusades against bugs, sometimes unknowingly upset the balance. For example, Nature has provided gardeners with one beetle, a rather sinister looking fellow who should be hailed as a friend.

This friendly beetle is known as the ground beetle. He was imported to help control the gypsy moth and the brown-tail moth. Fortunately, he relishes cankerworms and caterpillars. The accompanying Garden-Graph shows the ground beetle and the foliage-eating cankerworm which he helps to keep under control.

Ground beetles are large and flat in shape. Some are brown, some black and others are a brilliant blue-green in color. These beetles are carnivorous and as a general rule all carnivorous beetles and insects are beneficial since they feed upon other insects, many of which are enemies of man.

OHIO MANAGING OFFICERS GROUP MEETS AT O.S.R.

Sherwood, Welfare Director, to Address Heads of 23 Institutions Friday.

Charles L. Sherwood, head of the state division of welfare, will be one of the speakers Friday on the program of the Ohio Managing Officers Association when that group meets at Ohio State Reformatory.

The association is made up of managing heads of Ohio's 23 state institutions and head workers. Wives have been invited and about 100 are expected to attend the luncheon at the residence of Superintendent and Mrs. Arthur L. Glattke at the Reformatory.

The program will open at 1:30 p. m. in the prison chapel. Sherwood will address the group and papers will be read by the following: Eric Bell, psychiatrist at the Boys Industrial School, Lancaster; D. Blackburn, superintendent of placements at the boys' school; D. W. Allen on "The Testing Program of Ohio State Reformatory"; and Dr. W. Gill, psychiatrist of the Mansfield institution, who will tell of 3,800 examinations.

Two men on the reformatory staff here will also give papers. They are O. F. Garver, assistant superintendent, whose paper will deal with the effect of an athletic program on the institution morale; and A. T. Sneeringer, director of education, whose paper in on "Ohio State Reformatory Discipline and Classification Procedure." The association meets quarterly.

USE PARACHUTE

War Methods Not New to U. S. Forest Fire Fighters.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Parachute fire-fighters, who are being employed for the first time this year in the national forests, have been equipped with new lightweight radios, the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced.

Tests last fall indicated the practicability of dropping firefighters from airplanes to put out small fires in some of the inaccessible back-country areas of the forests. A new radiophone was developed so that the parachutists may keep in touch with the plane pilots and their headquarters.

A specially designed 'chute which descends about 12 feet per second, and permits some steering will be used by the parachute firemen. 'Chutists also wear protective suits and headgear to prevent injury if they land in tree tops.

In order to descend from tall trees, the jumpers carry coils of light, strong rope.

Scouts Plan To Entertain For 'Visitors' Night'

Boy Scouts attending the third period of the annual summer camp at Camp Avery Hand this week, will be given an opportunity to show their talents as entertainers at the weekly "parents night" observance at camp tonight.

Nearly all of the 52 boys now at camp will take some part in a program to be staged for parents, and scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

An area court of honor will feature "parents night" next week, the fourth and final week of summer camp. At least six boys are expected to be advanced to the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank, while others will be advanced in the ranks of Tenderfoot, First and Second class. Merit badges will also be awarded.

Fifty-six scouts are registered for the final period, which begins next Sunday afternoon.

REVAMPS ALL DINING CARS

Erie Railroad Completes Extensive Renovation Program.

Completion of dining car remodeling on all trains in and out of Mansfield on the Erie railroad was announced today by Paul Clark, division passenger agent, Akron.

Work of refurnishing the cars began six months ago, Clark said, and has brought a complete change in the interior design.

Rear portions of the all-steel cars have been outfitted with easy chairs for lounging. Writing facilities divide the rear of the cars from the front where new dining tables have been installed. Chromium and leather fittings provide a modern atmosphere. Clark also announced that reduced menu prices are in effect on all the trains.

STATE HIGHWAY EMPLOYES IN RICHLAND HELP PLAN PICNIC

State highway employes of Richland county are joining others of the eight-county district, for a picnic at Chippewa lake Wednesday, Aug. 7, given as a part of a "Citizenship Day" program being arranged by the highway department.

Principal speakers will be Gov. John W. Bricker and R. B. Gardner, Mansfield, state commander of the American Legion. The governor will speak on "Citizenship" and Gardner will talk on "Americanism."

The rally and picnic is sponsored by state employes and has the endorsement of the American Legion, as well as scores of fraternal and service groups in Ashland, Crawford, Erie, Huron, Medina, Richland and Wayne counties.

Robert S. Beightler, state highway director and chairman of the sponsoring committee, said that the rally is being given "in the belief that now is the time when something tangible should be done to revive an apparently lagging interest in American citizenship, and all that it means to the men, women and children of America."

A diversified program of entertainment features is being arranged. One of the features will be a bathing beauty contest, open to any young women of the eight counties, with prizes for first, second and third place winners.

There will be swimming races, rowboat races and prizes for the best dancers in various classifications. Certain of the rides in the park will be free to children and special prices have been arranged for all concessions in the park on that day.

A check of representative newspapers made by the University of Toledo showed that 2.2 per cent of the daily stories dealt with crime, 5.3 per cent with foreign news, 5.3 per cent with society and 8.5 with sports.

Leaders of Religious Cult Indicted for Mail Fraud

EARTHLY WOES DESCEND UPON 'I AM' CHIEFS

'Joan of Arc' Accepts U. S. Challenge of 'Divine Truth' of Sect.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—The "Divine Messengers" of the cult, "I Am," today found themselves in extensive, earthly trouble with the United States government for the alleged perpetration of a $3,000,000 mail fraud.

A federal grand jury indicted 24 leaders of "I Am," in a bill listing 23 counts of mail fraud conspiracy.

The government charged that the cult represented itself as a charity organization, in fact, operated to defraud those who contributed to it by means of large salaries, bonuses and unusually high living expenses.

Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, represented variously as "Joan of Arc," "Jesus" and "St. Germain," and her son, Donald, known to the congregation as "Lafayette," had operated the organization since the death in 1939 of its founder, Guy W. Ballard, the indictment said.

"I accept the challenge of the United States government to show the divine truth of the mighty 'I Am' presence," Mrs. Ballard declared as her attorney prepared to surrender her and her son today on $10,000 bail. "We ask the public to withhold judgment until it has heard the truth of this law."

The 46-page indictment alleged that her husband had organized the cult in 1930, representing himself as having "attained a supernatural state of self-immortality, which enabled him to conquer disease, death, old age, poverty and misery."

After his death, the indictment related, Mrs. Ballard called her followers together in Shrine auditorium and told them that Ballard had "ascended" from Royal Mt. Tejon and had become an "ascended master," ranking with Jesus and St. Germain, a fourth century French theologist.

The grand jury charged that members were recruited through "hypnotic control."

Among other means of raising revenue, it was charged, the cult sold a book teaching the attainment of "self-immortality."

Other charges included false representation that the world was coming to an end, this obviating the need for savings, and advocacy of "sex continence" because the rearing of children might interfere in the "giving of decrees" by members.

The cultists also were accused of having obtained revenue since 1930 by selling books and magazines through the mails.

Chillicothe Site Favored for Army Munitions Plant

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Army experts considered a site near Chillicothe the only one surveyed in southeastern Ohio that would be suitable for a munitions loading plant, it was learned through congressional sources today.

War department surveys, it was ascertained, disclosed that other proposed sites in the area were rejected flatly because they were too hilly or lacked water and other necessary facilities.

While the Chillicothe site was favored, the experts noted a lack of adequate transportation facilities and withheld their approval. Latest information was that a plant might be operated in western Ohio, probably in the Piqua-Troy area.

HOLLYWOOD — (NS) — Roland Young, popular screen actor, and his wife, Marjorie Kummer Young, to whom he had been married for 18 years, were at a parting of the ways today.

Mrs. Young filed suit for divorce charging desertion. She alleges Young left her in February, 1939.

Under an out-of-court settlement, Mrs. Young was to receive alimony ranging from $350 to $500 a month until 1944, with Young also agreeing to establish a trust fund for Mrs. Young.

CAPTURES EAGLE

Youth Takes Bird In Bare Hands After Fight.

TACOMA, Wash. —(AP)— Using only his bare hands, Robert Morton, 16, captured an eagle.

The bird with a wing spread of six feet, was returned to the zoo. Robert went to the hospital with ripped hands. He hopes his $5 will be paid him in bills. He's afraid there might be an eagle on a silver dollar.

Although a greater part of the 35 or more prizes which will go to boys competing in the annual Mansfield Soap Box derby, set for Aug. 7, have yet to be purchased by derby officials, the main prize, the M. E. Coyle trophy, which goes to the boy winning the race, was received here yesterday by Donald Cram, derby director. Cram plans to have the trophy on display soon in one of the downtown store windows.

A new record in the Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout area will be set Thursday night when at least 11 Richland county boys are to be advanced to the rank of Eagle Scout during an area court of honor at summer camp, Camp Avery Hand. This will be the largest number of boys ever to be advanced to the Eagle Rank at one time. The present record of nine was set Aug. 1, 1931 at a camp court of honor.

Tom Sawyer, who became famous because he duped someone else into whitewashing his fence, has a disciple in State Patrolman W. C. Smith. Smith drove the patrol car into the city building garage Wednesday morning, saw several men busy washing a city cruiser, and said jokingly, "Wash mine too." When he returned some time later he was amazed to see that his car had been washed and polished. He went back to the police office and inquired the identity of the men who were washing cars—and was told that they were city jail prisoners working out fines and took his joke as an order. Now Smith doesn't know whether the state patrol owes the city the price of a car wash, or whether he was just as lucky as Tom Sawyer.

'BEST YEAR' SINCE 1929

Ohio Seamless Tube Company at Shelby Reports Earnings of $214,772.

Experiencing its "best year since 1929," the Ohio Seamless Tube company at Shelby today reported net earnings of $214,772.47 for the first six months of 1940 as compared to $61,832.02 during the corresponding period in 1939.

The profit, amounting to $2.27 per share on outstanding common stock, was reported by W. C. Connelly, president of the company, in a letter to the shareholders.

"The net profit reported is after deducting all expenses, depreciation and estimated federal taxes based on existing tax laws, and is subject to year-end adjustments that may be made by out public auditors," Connelly said.

He stated that the company's financial position had been maintained despite capital expenditures and that net current assets on June 30 amounted to $1,267,744.69.

"Improvements in profits during the last half of 1939 and the first half of 1940 are due to some extent to capital expenditures made during the past two and a half years, and also due in part to the substantial increase in volume of sales," his letter stated.

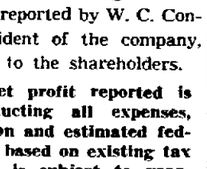

The letter said that dividends on the new Prior Preference stock, issued last winter, have been paid to July 1.

The directors have voted to pay in full on Aug. 1, all past due and unpaid dividends on the present outstanding seven per cent cumulative preferred stock, some dating back to 1932.

Company officials, however, declined to say what the exact amount would be.

Connelly's letter said, "If business conditions do not materially decline the directors expect to vote payment of a dividend on the common stock before the end of the year."

FUEL EMBARGO INDICATED TO AXIS NATIONS

Foreign Tankers Not Hit By Restriction Imposed By Maritime Commission.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Government stoppage of oil shipments to Spain in American tankers, an authoritative federal source said today, indicates a virtual embargo against fuel or lubricant supplies which might reach Germany or Italy through an intermediary.

The stoppage became known officially when the maritime commission disclosed that a few days ago it had halted the sailing of two tankers, bound from a Texas port for Spain with 200,000 barrels of oil.

"A policy of restricting charter approvals to trips mostly within the western hemisphere has been adopted by the commission," an official explained. "This action was taken because the commission thought it dangerous to allow American ships to go so near belligerent activity."

The official said that the commission adopted the general policy without being asked to do so by the White House or state department. He said that foreign tankers were not affected.

An authoritative source elsewhere, however, said that the embargo was directed against potential go-betweens for the Axis powers or Japan, and that it was being applied under the recent presidential proclamation authorizing the treasury department to impose shipping controls.

In the case of the Spanish shipments, this source said, officials reasoned that the quantities were too large for Spain's normal consumption.

The neutrality act permits American ships to visit only two European countries, Spain and Portugal. The maritime commission said it had not taken any action to halt oil shipments to Portugal, a country disposed more to Great Britain than to the Axis nations.

The Voice of BROADWAY

You Can't Print That!

(This is a compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If there is in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead—you've probably guessed right.)

David X. is a famous bandleader who has been in the top brackets of the jazz-players for years—and for a good many of these years he has been separated from his wife, but not divorced, because he prefers marriage as a protection against the scores of girls who might want to marry him.

He owes his fortune not only to his magic baton but to a well-known society woman (call her Elizabeth) who liked him even better than she liked his band, and who had enough influence to put his band into two of Manhattan's smartest night spots and get him his first radio commercial. Her ambition was to become Mrs. David X., but somehow David never quite got around to getting a divorce. So things just went along that way.

Now everything's suddenly changed. Dave would like a divorce, because he's in love with his estranged wife's secretary and wants desperately to marry her. And his wife would be delighted to be free of him.

Yet he doesn't dare get a divorce, because if he does, his society benefactress has threatened him with a court action if he doesn't marry her!

(But you can't print that. Dave's got enough troubles—learning that you can't eat your cake and have a romance, too.)

* * *

Stanley Z. is a famous book publisher—one of a book-printing duo that has made millions selling volumes to you and you. And for many years, his L. I. estate was next door to that of a young writer, Barry Y., who was just beginning to blossom importantly as a money-maker.

The two neighbors were very good friends — and even better friends were the big publisher and the young writer's wife. So, after a while, the wife divorced Barry and married Stanley. And Barry moved away.

A few months ago, Barry finished his last book and his agent—who doesn't bother about the vissicitudes of a client's private life—sold it, by coincidence, to Stanley's firm. The work caught on, and is making a lot of money—so much that the writer must confer almost daily with his ex-wife's new husband.

(But you can't print that. It sounds too much like one of the plots Barry would write and Stanley would publish.)

The romance of Mr. and Mrs. Marty Y. is one of the most publicized in the world of sports. He's a sort of Cinderella fellow, who came up from starvation to a laden table in a Broadway eatery in less than a year; she's an angelic looking lass who is supposed to be the power behind his success, the inspiration for his courage.

The real story of their lives is known only to those with long memories, who haven't forgotten that Mrs. Y. was one of the country's most famous gun girls, a member of one of the toughest criminal gangs ever hunted by the law. She managed to stay out of jail when the rest of her mob was rounded up but she was put on probation and given the choice of finding a job or getting married to a respectable citizen.

She chose Marty, and marriage. And now that Marty's in the headlines and in the money, her smiles at the camera lenses make swell feature stuff for the sports pages whose editors couldn't be expected to know that Marty's "little woman" was an ex-gun moll.

(But you can't print that. It would embarrass the sports writers to know that Marty really didn't care a bit about his "helpmate," or that she only came East in time for his last engagement because he was showing more interest in a pretty little chorus girl than in his career.)

Anne Q. is the niece of a prominent traveler, lecturer and writer. A few years ago she came to New York from her mid-west home and immediately started moving in the correct circles. She was charming, clever and popular, and one day, in a radio studio, she met—John—young and handsome baritone, whose career was just beginning. Their romance bloomed quickly, they were seen everywhere, and everyone (including John) accepted the fact that they were to be married.

Then, one day, Bill B. came along. Anne fell in love with him immediately, there was no doubt about it, and he fell for her. In about three weeks they were engaged and not long afterwards, they were married (after Anne had a talk with the young radio singer, and he made a great show of understanding and being gallant.)

Of course, John carried a burning torch, and his heartbreak was so great that he neglected his work, or was too sick to do it and he lost out on a number of radio jobs.

He needs work badly, now. As a matter of fact, the last time he was paid for singing was at a wedding. Anne and Bill, knowing John needed a job, hired him to sing "O, Promise Me" while they exchanged their vows of everlasting love.

(But you can't print that. It would pain the happy couple to know how miserable their happiness made the boy whom they both like so well and whom one of them once loved.)

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—I think Walter Wanger has his dander up. He's sitting in his office, and he's talking about the current trend toward "escapist" entertainment — people flocking to musicals, exhibitors advertising news reels minus war scenes, customers avoiding serious films dealing with current world tragedies.

And he's talking impersonally, not as a producer, because his own current movie pets are adventure yarns. They have war backgrounds, both "Foreign Correspondent" and "The Long Voyage Home," but he says he fears nothing on that score.

This is his argument:

"It's understandable, the demand for out-and-out escapist entertainment at a time like this, but let's have a sense of proportion. Nobody wants to make the theater into a schoolroom or a fountain of propaganda. On the other hand, I think the psychology of America is demanding to know more of what's going on in the world, and we have a right to see facts reflected dramatically in our screen material. If the public isn't interested, why does so large a part of it keep its ear glued to the radio?"

"I feel," he goes on, "that pictures should offer a varied program since, just like the stage, they could thrive on variety. From the talk you hear, you'd judge that Hollywood plans to make all its pictures for children. Hollywood needs a varied audience, and a variety in pictures would let exhibitors find new audiences. If we're getting an audience of 65,000,000 a week now, we could get 85,000,000 and that would mean prosperity. Let's have escapist pictures by all means, but let's not be foolish enough to make nothing but escapist films.

"You say that the public has turned thumbs down on most of the so-called anti-Nazi pictures. You'll except 'The Mortal Storm.' I say that most of these pictures were received coldly because their producers plunged in to the subject with insufficient background and study. They didn't bother or know how to make the pictures entertaining. They wouldn't dream of making an animal picture without calling in animal experts, but some of them went into these pictures without the necessary preparation—hence they missed. . . ."

"The public," says Wanger, "is far more attentive to current events than it ever was before. I remember a gag in a Ziegfeld show ten or twelve years ago about Czechoslovakia. It was a gag for the reasrn that nobody knew Czechoslovakia except as a funny name. What a difference today!

"The trend for next year? Most important, I believe, is that next year will see the ostrich supplanted by the American Eagle once more. We can look for a boom in musicals, but we can expect a reasonable number of films that face realities. I don't mean propaganda films — but pictures which are cognizant of the times in which we live, with characters affected by these times. . . ."
